M'Arthur Attack Forces Jap Troops to Retreat

U. S. OFFICIAL Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)

The War Department reported today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops in a surprise counterattack have forced back the Japanese several kilometers on the Philippine Bataan peninsula.

(A kilometer is, roughly, five-eighths of a mile.)

A 9:30 a. m. (E.W.T.) communique said that fighting was still in progress with continued local successes.

Main positions of the enemy, however, have not been penetrated, it was pointed out.

The attack brought the first substantial advance for the American-Filipino defenders since they were forced to withdraw into the narrow peninsula two months ago.

A War Department spokesman cryptically advised reporters to "make your own interpretation" of the Jap reversal in Bataan.

The communique:

"PHILIPPINE THEATER: In a surprise thrust Gen. MacArthur's troops in Bataan attacked sharply all along the line, capturing a number of the enemy's advance positions.

"The attack was particularly successful on the right, where forward elements of the Japanese troops were forced to withdraw several kilometers.

"Fighting is still in progress with continued local successes. However, the main positions of the enemy have not been penetrated.

"Information reaching Gen. MacArthur from central and northern Luzon indicates that small bodies of American and Philippine troops are continuing to harass the Japanese in guerrilla fighting with considerable success.

"Desultory patrol action is reported from Mindanao where the invading troops have been reinforced by a detachment of Japanese marines.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

Follow the thrilling life story of Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Boston Record each day.

The Russians declared today they had defeated reserves which the Germans were hurling into the flaming battle of the Staraya Russa area, where a Soviet ring of destruction closed tighter upon survivors of the smashed Nazi 16th army.

One of the reserve units, said to have been beaten when it attempted to break through to aid the trapped troops, was identified as the 56th regiment of the German fifth division.

Dispatches from the front said Russian fliers and anti-aircraft guns were breaking up attempts by the Germans to bring supplies into the Staraya Russa area by transport planes.

The Russians said captured German orders disclosed that 96,000 troops had been caught in the Staraya Russa trap.

"They are disintegrating," a dispatch said. "Their situation is hopeless."

21 JAP PLANES SHOT DOWN IN RANGOON FIRE

Rangoon, Burma

U. S. OFFICIAL

Allied fighter planes shot down 21 Japanese raiders today in battles for control of the air over blazing Rangoon, fired to destroy all that might be of value to the Japanese, while a battle-thinned line of British defense forces still held doggedly along the west bank of the Sittang river.

British communiques on the progress of the fight for what remains of the Burma Road said Japanese troops were believed to be moving north along the east bank of the river, some 70 miles from Rangoon, and that there was no contact with the invaders at the southern anchor of the front.

It was announced, too, that the hard-hitting American Volunteer Group attached to the Chinese air force had carried the fight again to Japanese bases in Thailand.

More naval successes crowned the Allies' effort as they pushed their offensives against the Axis on far-flung seas today.

United States submarines carrying on an intensive Allied naval offensive touched off by the Japanese invasion of Bali, were credited officially today with torpedoing two enemy troop ships, a naval auxiliary, and a freighter and probably scoring a hit on a Japanese cruiser or destroyer.

In an action off the coast of Norway, the British submarine Trident successfully attacked the 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen, one of the three warships which had escaped from the French port of Brest. The two German battleships that fled Brest had been damaged in running the English channel gauntlet. Now all three appear to be definitely out of the war for some time to come.

OFFICIAL NEWS

United States submarines, carrying on an intensive Allied naval offensive touched off by the Japanese invasion of Bali, were credited officially today with torpedoing two enemy troop ships, a naval auxiliary and a freighter and probably scoring a hit on a Japanese cruiser or destroyer within the last two days.

The submarine which attacked the warship was forced to submerge before it could observe the effect of its torpedo.

The location of the action was not specified by the Dutch East Indies high command, which reported yesterday that Allied bombing planes had sunk three transports in the waters of Macassar in southwestern Celebes.

At the same time, Dutch defense forces in the outlying portions of the Indies archipelago still were fighting vital delaying actions designed to hold off as long as possible the expected all-out offensive against this thickly-populated, United Nations stronghold of Java.

BATTLES STILL RAGE

The Dutch communique said that even on Ambona, the Indies' secondary naval base which the Japanese claimed to have occupied.

NAZI CRUISER TORPEDOED

London,

Feb. 26 (INS)

OFFICIAL NEWS

By JAMES E. BROWN

The three German warships which escaped from Brest under the eyes of the British navy and Royal Air Force have been knocked out of action for some time to come, Britain heard today.

The announcement was made by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, introducing new naval estimates of an undisclosed total. Alexander gave this cheering version of the fate of the three crack Nazi warships which made their getaway under the eyes of the British navy and the Royal Air Force.

1—The 26,000-ton Nazi battleship Scharnhorst, pride of Hitler's navy, which led the dash from Brest Feb. 13, is laid up in Germany.

2—Her sister ship, the Gneisenau, is likewise out of action.

3—The 10,000-ton heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen, which with the other two raced through Straits of Dover under an "umbrella" of German fighting planes, was the probable victim of a British submarine attack off Norway Feb. 23.

TELL OF CRUISER'S LOSS

The announcement said:

"The submarine Trident attacked and hit a cruiser of the Prinz Eugen class off the Norwegian coast.

"This attack occurred on Feb. 23.

"Aerial reconnaissance subsequently showed a ship of the Prinz Eugen class off Trondheim, Norway, in tow of tug and damaged aft.

"It seems probable the ship was the Prinz Eugen, in which case all three warships which escaped from Brest have been damaged.

"There are reliable reports that both the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau received severe damage. Photographs show one dry-docked at Kiel and the other has been located in a dockyard at Wilhelmshaven."

At the same time the admiralty

Spies in 15 Planes Over West Coast?

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (INS)—Secretary of War Stimson today expressed the belief the Los Angeles air raid alert was caused by at least 15 airplanes operated by enemy agents from undisclosed airports, probably commercial bases on this hemisphere.

MRS. CAROL LATHROP VAN DE VANTER

NAVY FLIER GIVES WIFE HER REVENGE ON JAPS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—It took 5 years but Carol Lathrop Van de Vanter, 23-year-old wife of Capt. Eliot Van de Vanter, today got a degree of satisfaction for the insult she suffered at the hands of Jap sentries.

The revenge came in the way the beautiful young Washington woman prayed it would. Her darling aviator husband dropped several bombs on a Japanese destroyer during the battle of Bali.

"Delighted . . . to say the least," was the happy comment of Mrs. Van de Vanter.

The former Miss Lathrop, daughter of the late Commander Patrick M. Lathrop of the Navy, was violently kicked by a Jap sentry a Peiping, China, in 1937. She was visiting her sister at the American embassy when sentries ordered her from the vicinity.

With a woman companion, she was ordered to move on. The sentries charged at the two women from behind sandbag barricades while they were walking peacefully along the street.

When the future Mrs. Van de Vanter burst into tears from the fright at the surprise assault, the sentry kicked her in the side and shoved her along with his bayonet.

Efforts of American embassy officials to obtain an apology from Tokyo authorities failed to elicit even the olive, "So sorry, mistake, excuse please."

Miss Lathrop returned to Washington and became the wife of Capt. Van de Vanter.

Secretary Stimson at a press conference said the latest information reaching him was that the planes apparently had no intention of dropping bombs.

The report read by Stimson was from information supplied by Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff.

Only yesterday Secretary of Navy Knox at a press conference had said that it was the Navy's "understanding" that the Los Angeles alert was "just a false alarm."

SILENT RAID

Stimson today, however, said the report before him indicated the aim of the "silent raid" apparently was to create confusion, slow down production and disclose the location of anti-aircraft guns.

He asserted he had been informed that 1435 rounds of ammunition were fired by Army anti-aircraft crews between 3:12 and 4:15 a. m., Pacific time.

The planes flew at speeds varying from "slow" to an estimated 200 miles per hour and at elevations from 9000 to 18,000 feet.

Stimson reiterated that no American Army or Navy planes were in the air at that time and that no bombs were dropped.

DEMANDS PROBE

Meanwhile, Rep. Leland Ford (R.) of California, demanded a congressional investigation of the whole incident.

"Whatever this raid was, it created a hysterical condition among 2,000,000 people," Ford told the House. "I call on this House to appoint a committee to summon the Secretaries of War and Navy to find out what this is all about."

Rep. Voorhis (D.) of California, however, praised the efficiency of the blackout.

"Out of all we don't know about this, we do know one thing," he said. "Within two minutes after the alarm there was a perfect blackout in the country. The people remained calm and there was no trouble."

BUY BONDS FOR BOMBERS

PLEDGE OF $100,000 BY CLEANSERS, DYERS UNION SWELLS FUND

$100,000 MORE PLEDGED TO BOMBERS—The Cleansers' and Dyers' Union, local 183, A. C. W. A., representing 2000 Greater Boston workers, pledges $100,000 to the Buy Bonds for Bombers campaign. Shown are (front, l. to r.) George Harrigan, business agent; Jack Praeger, business agent; Abraham Freedman, chairman; Philip Di Napoli (back, l. to r.), Samuel Bromfield, Domenic Loiero and Edward Samerjian.

BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS! From the far-flung frontiers of the United Nations' battle against aggression by fiendish Axis powers comes the oft-repeated cry:

Winchester's New Triplets Are A, B, C

The Stevens family of Winchester must learn their A, B, C's all over again.

The triplet sons born Feb. 24 to Mrs. Bert Stevens of Holland st., Winchester, at the Winchester Hospital, go by the names of "A," "B" and "C," and, according to their happy mother, will not be named otherwise for some time.

"When I take them home I'll leave the markers tied round their little necks, for I'll never be able to tell them apart," she said today.

They are three out of 6000, these tiny lads, for only one birth of 6000 are triplets. They are further distinguished so soon in life by being only the second set of boy triplets born there in the history of the Winchester Hospital.

Slightly premature, the boys tip the scales at four pounds 12 ounces; little "C" outweighing his brothers at a five pounds, three and a half ounces.

Unlike most triplets, the Stevens boys were never put in an incubator, but sleep happily in the hospital nursery with the other normal and completely healthy babies.

Mrs. Stevens' family was doubled when the triplets were born, and her other three children, Nancy, 12; Alice, 5, and Paul, 3, are waiting anxiously for the ABC's to come home.

This morning, the mother of the other boy triplets born 7 years ago at Winchester Hospital, Mrs. Edward Drohan of Winchester, called to congratulate Mrs. Stevens and to assure her that three little gentlemen, though quite a surprise in the home, were no crowd.

"Give us PLANES, give us BOMBERS! and we WILL WIN FINAL VICTORY!"

Every loyal American citizen or organization should consider that plea a CHALLENGE—a challenge that can be met only by BUYING BONDS. BONDS and MORE BONDS!

Take up the challenge TODAY! Get into the FIGHT FOR FREEDOM by buying the safest investment in the world . . . BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS.

From the Cleansers and Dyers Union, Local 183, CIO, today came a solemn pledge to buy $100,000 in BONDS. This promise pushed the BUY A BOMBER campaign total to $8,357,602.

Appointed chairman of the group in charge of assuring success of the Cleansers and Dyers drive for $100,000 was Abraham Freedman. Assisting him will be George Harrigan, business agent; Philip Di Napoli, Samuel Bromfield, Edward Samerjian and Domenic Loiero.

2000 JOIN EFFORT

"Every one of our 2000 members has been called upon to do his or her part in the purchase of STAMPS and BONDS," Freedman told the BUY A BOMBER editor (5 Winthrop sq., Boston).

"The Record-American and Sunday Advertiser is to be congratulated for conducting this patriotic drive."

"Success in this most worthy of all campaigns will mean quicker victory."

If you haven't already done so . . . BUY A BOND FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS TODAY!

If you've already bought a BOND don't be satisfied. BUY ANOTHER TODAY, and ANOTHER tomorrow.

FULL DUTY DEMANDED

A tremendous, encouraging boost was given the BUY A MASSACHUSETTS BOMBER campaign with the pledge by Massachusetts Council, Knights of Columbus, to buy ONE MILLION DOLLARS worth of BONDS.

House Will Debate 40-Hr. Week Repeal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Speaker Rayburn cleared the way today for House debate on a proposal to suspend operation of the 40-hour week and the eight-hour day during the war.

FLEES FIRE—When flames swept a store beneath her Washington st., Brighton, home early today, Beatrice McCormack, 16, fled to the street . . . taking her dog, Teddy, with her.

He did this by announcing that he would not rule out on a technically a pending amendment, drafted by Rep. Smith (D.) of Virginia, to suspend the maximum hour requirements and extra pay for overtime work now provided for in 17 separate laws.

In announcing yesterday that he would offer the amendment when the House resumed consideration of the war powers bill today, Smith said he had no doubt it would be subjected to a point of order and opponents would try to block its consideration on the ground it was not germane.

Rayburn said he had no doubt the amendment would be germane to so broad a bill as the war powers measure, which seeks to confer 15 emergency powers on various federal agencies.

Smith said the laws were "handicapping our war effort." As examples, he cited 17,000 West Coast workers in 250 plants who ignored government pleas to stay on the job on Washington's Birthday, and 3,000 CIO shipbuilders at San Pedro, Cal., who refused to work longer than eight hours.

U. S. Intervention For India Asked

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—The State Department was being pressed today to ask Great Britain for an immediate pledge of post-war self-government for India.

Influential members of the Senate foreign relations committee, it was learned, made the demand on Breckenridge Long, assistant Secretary of State.

When the subject was raised by Sen. LaFollette (Prog.) of Wisconsin during a closed committee session yesterday, the recommendation was said to have had the active support of most of the 11 members present.

Apprehensive over the continued advance of Japanese troops across Burma, LaFollette and others were said to have expressed the view that it was highly important that Indian and Chinese forces be united to form a defense line to halt the invaders and eventually to halt the offensive against them.

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps pledged the Churchill government to swift decision on India's political status and, in a forceful and liberal first speech as the Prime Minister's House of Commons spokesman, declared it vital that the people of India fight and "act with Britain" in defense of their vast country.

PUNCHED BY SLAIN GIRL'S KIN—Clarence McDonald, admitted slayer of 17-year-old Dorothy Broz, rubs his bleeding jaw while being led to a chair after he had been punched by the slain girl's uncle during inquest in Chicago court. McDonald confessed shooting his schoolgirl sweetheart in a dark theater balcony.

GRAND JURY SPEEDS PROBE OF CHICAGO MOVIE MURDER

CHICAGO, Feb. 26 (INS)—The fatal shooting of a 17-year-old suburban high school beauty, killed in a real-life balcony drama as a lurid mystery-thriller flashed on a Loop motion picture theater's screen, reached a Cook County grand jury today.

The jurors were to take testimony with a view toward indictment following a turbulent inquest into the sensational slaying of attractive Dorothy Broz. The girl died of a single bullet fired into her body, police insist, by 17-year-old Clarence McDonald, former schemer of the victim.

Dorothy Broz

McDonald was held for the grand jury after a coroner's jury heard how he allegedly lured the pretty Morton high school senior to the theater balcony and shot her in cold blood as she watched a picture from a balcony seat.

CARRIED GUN TWICE

Changing an earlier story that he killed his companion without reason, McDonald, according to Assistant State's Attorney Leslie V. Curtis, turned to murder because he thought his romance with Dorothy was hopeless.

The fact that Dorothy and her parents were deeply religious while he had fallen away from their faith appeared to the boy as an insurmountable obstacle to a marriage, questioning in Curtis' office revealed.

"I wasn't what you called jealous of her," said the youth. "On my honor I wasn't. She didn't have anybody else. It was just our religion."

McDonald said he had carried the revolver with which the girl was killed just twice.

UNCLE STRIKES HIM

"Once was two weeks ago in a bowling alley," he said. "Dorothy said that her mother didn't want me going around with her. I told her then that if I couldn't have her, no one could. She told me she knew me too well to think I'd do anything rash."

"For two or three days I'd been thinking that I would kill her to keep her from anyone else. I took the gun to the show so that if I got a chance I could kill her."

Unequaled in Cook County for milling disorder, the inquest was thrown into confusion when the accused slayer was attacked by John Broz, an uncle of the girl.

As McDonald was being led past a group of spectators, Broz lurched forward, shoved away a police guard and sent McDonald reeling with a blow to the jaw. Police immediately seized the uncle and led him outside.

"I socked him," Broz said, "because he sat there cold-bloodedly sneering at the witnesses and the whole proceedings."

Meanwhile, Donald Rogers, Clarence's attorney, indicated that a plea of temporary insanity would be his client's defense.

168 RESCUED FROM 2 LOST NAVY SHIPS

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Feb. 26 (AP)—The count of men rescued from the shipwrecked United States destroyer Truxtun and the naval supply ship Pollux stood today at 168—125 more than were accounted for in first reports.

Newfoundland villagers said they had taken 118 bodies from the sea and continued their search for others.

The United States Navy had announced in Washington that 189 officers and men were lost in gale-churned Canadian waters where the two vessels recently were cast on the rocky shore and smashed, but did not give the number of survivors.

What the casualties might have been had not four sailors from the Truxtun braved the southeaster to make shore on a raft could only be guessed. As it was, the ships had been pitched on the rocks four hours before the sailors could summon the aid from shore inhabitants for which President Roosevelt has expressed his admiration and gratitude.

House in Fiery Debate Over F.D. Jr.'s Rank

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (INS)—Rep. Pfeiffer (R.) of New York, precipitated sharp debate in the House today when he charged Lieut. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., the President's son, was given preferential treatment by the Navy.

Pfeiffer asserted Roosevelt was granted his Navy rank "by virtue of birth," and that the Navy has now given him a month's leave to recover from an appendectomy. "This symbolizes the pernicious system whereby sons of prominent men are given favored treatment," Pfeiffer asserted.

Rep. Woodrum (D.) of Virginia, said Lieut. Roosevelt's treatment was like that accorded anyone in the armed services.

"Shame on any member of the House who would make this sort of attack on the son of the President!" cried Woodrum.

Rep. McCormack (D.) of Massachusetts, chided Pfeiffer for engaging in "individual sniping," and declared he had personal information that the sons of the President were seeking the "most dangerous" duty in the Army and Navy.

Firemen carried them to the ground over ladders.

The blaze started in a club on the ground floor. Damage was estimated at $12,000.

In Brighton, police aroused 11 children and seven adults in three apartments after fire broke out in a hardware store on the street floor of a Washington st. building.

12 Blackouts Tonight on North Shore

Spurred into alert action by ever more daring Axis thrusts, a dozen North Shore communities tonight will stage from 9 to 9:30 the biggest blackout since Boston's test last week.

All 12 cities and towns are included in the Greater Boston area of 41 communities which soon will stage the most ambitious blackout yet attempted in the nation.

Lights will go out tonight in Salem, Peabody, Beverly, Middleton, Essex, Hamilton, Topsfield, Danvers, Wenham, Ipswich, Manchester and Boxford.

TEST IN NORTHBORO

Northboro also will hold a test tonight and scores of other communities are busy on planning similar blackouts during the next few weeks.

Even Danvers State Hospital will participate in tonight's big test, operating on a plan already tried out at that institution.

Meanwhile, Cambridge officials announced rules for a half-hour blackout for March 5 while Quincy will hold its blackout March 10 and Malden on March 6.

Other communities which have completed blackout plans are: Spencer, March 4; West Brookfield proper, March 1; West Brookfield environs, March 2; Clinton, March 6; Ashland, March 6; Milford, March 8; Millbury, March 3, and Auburn, March 2.

MOTHERS CAN AID

Blackouts will also be staged at Stoneham, March 6; Concord, March 8, and Milton, March 10.

Commenting on the recent reorganization of the Women's Defense Corps, J. Wells Farley, executive director of Massachusetts Public Safety Committee, said today he wished to correct erroneous impressions that mothers are barred from membership.

Only expectant mothers will be barred from the corps' activities, Farley said. He said the women will be given leaves of absence until physically capable of rejoining their units.

Slayer Cvek Dies Tonight

6 OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 26 (AP) —Before George Joseph Cvek was sentenced to death last May for the slaying of a Bronx housewife who had befriended him, he asked the judge to omit the customary words "and may God have mercy on your soul."

Without even that comfort—for Judge James M. Barrek left out the phrase—the 24-year-old vagabond who authorities said had admitted robbing or attacking at least 14 women in eastern cities pays with his life tonight.

Nine months of waiting in the death house at Sing Sing will end for the convicted strangler of Mrs. Catherine Pappas, 34, at 11 o'clock (EWT) when Cvek is scheduled to be electrocuted.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward Breslin tried to see Cvek yesterday to question him about the unsolved killing of Mrs. Elizabeth Jensen a month after the death of Mrs. Pappas, but Cvek refused to talk to him.

My Lady to Have Bangles And Baubles Despite War

By AMY PORTER

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—Spaghetti around the wrist instead of the fork; snail shells on the bosom instead of the beach—these are samples of how jewelry manufacturers are overcoming the loss of their tin supply.

Seeds, nuts and wood also are being used for novelty jewelry, while for more conservative costume jewelry the manufacturers are turning to precious metals and semi-precious stones and producing real instead of "junk" bracelets and other bangles.

Rallying out of the doldrums which beset them recently when a war production board ruling cut off their supply of tin, jewelers who for more than a year have managed without pearls from Japan and glass stones from Czechoslovakia decided two things:

1—To use precious metals for their products, yet continue to sell them at the usual low costume jewelry prices.

2—To develop more novelty lines, using seashells and the like instead of tin as raw material. Milady's silver bracelet will be gold-plated, probably, just as her tin one was, for the sake of style and to eliminate the need for polishing. If it seels for $1, it won't be quite as bulky, but the design will be more attractive, jewelers say.

Her lapel piece may have fewer colored stones, but if she can be content with only one or two stones they may be real jade, or rose quartz, of good design and craftsmanship, on which manufacturers say they are concentrating.

For summer gaily jewelers propose strings of spaghetti dyed to brilliant colors, strings of Nassau snail shells in their natural state, carved plastics and American-made pearls.

And the jewelers, confident that American women will want to buy even more costume jewelry than last year—which they estimated was twice as much as the year before—are experimenting with still other materials and techniques.

The lady of fashion, they say, never will have to go without her baubles.

NEWTON EL CAR CRASH PROBES BEGIN

With 10 of the 45 injured persons still hospitalized, a two-way investigation was in progress today by Newton police and the Boston Elevated into the derailling and overturning of a new type trolley, at Park and Tremont sts., Newton.

Already Police Chief Michael T. Hughes of Newton has asserted flatly that trolley cars have been driven at too high speeds at the combination down grade and curve, but Elevated officials have withheld a formal statement until the probe is complete.

The runaway car leaped the rails and in toppling over on a church lawn tore down a telephone pole. Remaining calm in the emergency, Leon W. Hastings of Fenton st., Watertown, the operator, succeeded in opening front and rear doors. Police and firemen joined in aiding to remove injured passengers.

Keep 3 Low Cards In Gin Rummy Hand

Josephine Culbertson, famed authority on gin rummy, the fascinating card game now sweeping the country, in her article today gives the first rule of play.

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

There are a few standard principles of scientific play which the gin rummy player must learn, from experience or otherwise, before he can be a consistent winner.

The first rule of good play is this: At least three of your unmatched cards should be low cards. In general, you should try to develop your hand so that these three cards total at most 10 points.

If you have more than three low cards, you should keep them when you draw them. If necessary, you should even pick them up from your opponent's discards.

Suppose you have this hand:

Club K Spade K-Q

Heart J-10

Spade 8-7 Heart 7-6 Diamond 6
It is a fairly promising hand, as gin dummy hands go. Every card in it, when combined with some other card, can produce a matched set with one lucky draw. Altogether, any one of ten different cards (Heart K—Diamond K—Spade J—Heart Q—Heart 9—Spade 9—Heart 8—Heart 5—Spade 6—Club 6) will produce a matched set for you.

MAKE 2 SETS

Now suppose you try to hold on to all those promising combinations until you match them up. In four or five draws, if you have average luck, your hand will hold something like this:

Club K Spade 8-7-6

Heart J-10 Spade 9-8-6

Diamond 6

Here you have made two matched sets, which is about the best you can hope for, and you still cannot knock. If you should now draw another king, or the nine of hearts, you will still be unable to knock. Furthermore, your count is so high that if your opponent knocks you can hardly hope to lay off enough cards to tie or beat him.

Thus, if you hold on to every possibility for a matched set, at the expense of not keeping the low cards you are lucky enough to draw; you are, in effect, playing for "gin" every time. You must fill at least three matched sets in order to win.

Experience tells us that this is a losing game, since just one hand in four ends with a player's going gin.

Half the game will be gone in that one hand, and you may never recover from so serious a loss. You may even lose a shut-out game, giving your opponent a 200-point game bonus. So, with an original holding like this:

Spade Q Club Q-10

Diamond J-9 Spade 9-8

Heart 8-6-5

Your first thought should be a reduction of your count. If you draw a three or a four, you should keep it, even if it does not match with anything in your hand, and you should throw away your 10 of clubs.

You should continue this policy for several plays, until you have a few low cards. Your jack will be the next to go, and then, if necessary, one of the queens. You must be content with what possible matching combinations you can keep while still reducing your hand.

KEEP YOUR PAIRS

If your opponent during this early period should discard an ace or a deuce, you should pick it up and reduce your count further. In the first place, the very fact that he throws such a low card warns that he has a good hand and is likely to knock very shortly. You do not want to be caught with too high a count.

This matter of picking up very low cards and discarding your high ones is mathematically sound. When you draw blindly from the stock, it is always two-to-one against your drawing a four or lower card, and it is about six-to-one that you will not get an ace or a deuce.

During the first few plays it is good to hang on to pairs of face cards, provided you do not hold too many of them. Your opponent will be reducing his own hand, and the first cards he will want to get rid of are kings, queens, jacks and tens. By keeping your pairs, you will often make a matched set very quickly.

The only war-like here is not to carry this policy to extremes. It works when you have been dealt three or four low cards; it also works when you can pick up or keep low cards without throwing away your high pairs. It must always be subordinated to the primary policy of getting and holding the three cards which total 10 or less.

SUB DRIVE AXIS TRICK TO DIVERT U. S. PACIFIC POWER, ELIOT WARNS

By MAJOR GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

Copyright, 1942, New York Tribune, Inc.

The enemy must be getting rather more than anxious about the Pacific. Otherwise he would not be trying so desperately to create a diversion by his submarine operations in the Gulf and off our Pacific coast.

These operations are risky. Submarines cannot enter an enclosed sea such as the Caribbean and expose their presence at a point so far from the entrances of the seas as Aruba without taking very grave chances of never getting home again.

Nor can submarines operate on a well-defended hostile shore, 4000 miles from their nearest base, without running similar risks. American tankers can be sunk elsewhere than in the Caribbean; shells can be fired into American territory elsewhere than on the California coast. So the purpose must have been the hope that these operations would divert strength from the main American effort in the Pacific.

Diversions such as these are not uncommon in warfare.

THE AXIS STRATEGY

The German raids in the Caribbean are undoubtedly intended to make us convoy all our shipping, both coastal and Caribbean, and to increase the scale of our defenses not only at Panama, but in every little island base and outpost from the Gulf to the Guianas.

The sum total of ships, men, guns, planes and supplies thus mobilized would be well worth the loss of half a dozen U-boats.

On the West Coast, the Japanese undoubtedly hope to force us to convoy all shipping over the long pull from Panama to our West Coast ports, to patrol our coasts and those of our Latin-American neighbors with ships and aircraft, to increase the defenses of our ports—and to meet the demands of Mexico and Central America for more and more weapons for local defense.

The more the enemy tries to divert us, the more likely it becomes that he has good and sufficient reason for doing so, and we need not tax our imaginations too greatly to discover what sort of danger in occasioning so much anxiety at Berlin and Tokio.

THE GERMAN FLEET

The recent dash of the German battleships through the Dover Strait, the subsequent report that three large German warships were going to Trondheim to raid our communications with Russia, and all the recent agitation about the French fleet, are manifestations of the same desire to immobilize or divert American naval forces from the critical center of the Pacific war until Japan has finally made good her conquest of Java and the gates of the Indian Ocean, until MacArthur has been overwhelmed and the Burma Road cut.

All this depends on Japan's sea-communications remaining undisturbed.

There has rarely been a moment in our history when it was more necessary for us to take such blows as may be directed at us, and to await with unflinching courage the outcome of those far-flung operations on which the future course of this war may well depend.

man army is tightening," Red Star reported in a sequel to accounts yesterday of the smashing of three divisions and slaying of 12,000 Germans guarding a network of communications in the zone 140 miles south of Leningrad.

"The German-Fascist forces are suffering great losses in manpower and equipment," the Soviet Information Bureau said today.

The bureau said 500 invaders were killed in the occupation of four towns on the southwestern front and that 13 settlements had been recaptured on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow.

It made no further comment on the Staraya Russa engagement, but said about 3,000 Germans were slain in a 10-day battle on the southwestern front and that a heavy machine-gun unit killed more than 100 men and disabled six German tanks in a western sector.

Wavell Hurt In Plane Crash

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (INS)—Paying tribute to the bravery of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, Secretary of War Stimson today disclosed that the commander-in-chief of the United Nations forces in the Southwest Pacific was injured in a plane crash at Singapore before that bastion fell.

Stimson said Wavell suffered a broken rib when his plane crashed while taking off under Japanese fire from a Singapore airport.

The secretary said Wavell landed at Singapore under fire the day before it fell to the Japanese and took off a few hours later. He remarked that Wavell has been extremely energetic in visiting and inspecting various war theaters in the Southwest Pacific.

Stimson added that Wavell had also tried to make arrangements to pay a flying visit to the besieged headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur on Bataan peninsula, but was dissuaded by the United States General.

EX-GOVERNOR DIES

DENVER, Feb. 26 (AP)—Jesse F. McDonald, 83-year-old mining executive and former Governor of Colorado, died last night.

The Navy said the successful attack was carried out by Donald Francis Mason, aviation machinist's mate first class who, after he had blasted the submarine with depth bombs, reported to his base, "Sighted sub, sank same."

The message by which he first announced his action had been given out previously, but today's was the first detail, and along with this it was announced that Mason had been advanced to the rating of aviation chief machinist's mate and commended for meritorious conduct in action.

The commendation told this story of Mason's attack:

"While piloting a plane on patrol duty (he), observed the wake of a submarine proceeding submerged at periscope depth. He immediately turned down to a low altitude, and dropped two depth bombs which straddled the periscope. The conning tower of the submarine rose clear of the water for a short period and then sank again. A large patch of oil soon covered the area. This attack was adjudged successful."

"In this attack Mason demonstrated a high degree of coolness, alertness, initiative and training, and excellent flying ability."

Trend of War at Sea Favors United Nations

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (INS)—Current trend of the war at sea today leaned definitely in favor of America and the United Nations, Washington observers asserted on the basis of a recapitulation of shipping losses by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox.

The secretary's figures, combined with those submitted by the Army, show that the Axis powers have sustained severe blows in both the Atlantic and Pacific areas.

Their total losses, which Knox said were stated conservatively, are as follows:

Seventy-three ships sunk, 24 believed sunk, 37 damaged, 49 attacked.

The secretary emphasized that the tabulation "does not include many enemy ships thought to have been damaged."

(Today's communique increased the total of Axis losses by the torpedoing of two Jap warships, a naval auxiliary and a freighter and a probable hit on a cruiser in Dutch East Indies waters.)

(In addition, a British submarine successfully attacked the heavy Nazi cruiser Prinz Eugen off the coast of Norway.)

announced that another submarine had scored three torpedo hits on an enemy convoy consisting of three supply ships in the Mediterranean.

In the first full naval review issued in London in many months, Alexander disclosed that 4843 British merchant ships have now been fitted with defensive devices "other than anti-aircraft guns," including ship-borne fighter planes.

SECRET PROTECTION

(One of the most closely guarded secrets of the British navy is this type of merchant ship protection. Obviously, fighter planes operating from cargo vessels operate at suicidal risk. When they take off to combat enemy planes, their only hope of a safe landing lies in their fuel capacity and distance from shore. More often than not, according to current information, they pancake down on the surface of the water when their gasoline runs out and hope for the best.)

Alexander commented that the "Battle of the Atlantic has developed into a battle of the seven seas."

"For two and a half years," said the spokesman, "the Royal Navy has been fighting day and night with heavy casualties."

"It has been expanded to three or four times its peacetime strength."

"At no time has Britain fewer than 2000 ships at risk on the oceans."

"Our merchant ships to date have shot down 76 enemy planes and probably have destroyed 40. They have damaged 89."

"U-boat construction undoubtedly is on an unprecedented scale and expands month by month."

"Although the total number of ships convoyed is still very large, losses in convoy are still under 5.5 per cent."

"Losses in the Far East and Pacific have been considerable, but a portion of the ships lost were designed solely for local trade along the China coast."

"As regards the North American coast, our Allies are putting measures in hand to make the task of the U-boat more difficult."

"For nearly a year there have been no mercantile losses from German warships and raiders, but we may now be beginning a new period of raider activity, both German and Japanese."

"Twenty-two enemy surface raiders and their supply ships 'have been put where they can do no harm during 1941,' the spokesman said."

The British captured, sank or damaged 2,500,000 tons of Axis shipping in 1941," he added.

Alexander revealed for the first time that the British battleships Nelson, Resolution and Malaya, as well as the aircraft carriers Illustrious and Formidable, have been damaged, "but are tending up to it."

The Nelson, he said, twice suffered damage.

Pup Must Find New Home or Die

By ALICE BISSELL

Boston Evening American Staff Reporter

A little dog is pleased during the winter months with a menu of scraps fed secretly to him by his six tiny masters under the dinner table, or a blue plate special of his cuttend milk.

But come spring . . . and spring is in the air . . . with 500 nice fat chickens next door, the pup's taste changes with the weather.

That's why Pippy, the two-year-old black and white collie belonging to the six Patterson children of South Main st., Sharon, faces death or exile within a month. He is charged with killing and eating 12 dinners from the chicken pen last season, and with being too easily tempted when the birds are let loose again.

News of the death sentence was learned when Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson wrote to the editor of this paper:

"Do you know of any child who would like a dog? He is small, 2 years old, and an excellent watch dog. His disposition is gentle. I would prefer to have him in the country where he can romp in the fields. We will give him away if someone will get in touch with us. Someone would surely love him who has no hens. My children, Nancy, 5, Jackie, 4, Robert, 3, Charles, 2, and Walter and William, 13 months, want to give him up rather than make him die."

Pippy's two loves are children and chicks.

Won't some child where there are no chicks save the little fellow's life?

pletely three days ago, "It is quite well possible that our troops still continue to fight."

In southern Celebes the battle against the invaders also raged "with unabated fierceness," the communique reported. In western Borneo the Dutch commander was forced to withdraw from Simpang in the face of a superior Japanese force driving down the coast from Pontianak, but reported he would continue to fight, despite a Japanese demand to surrender or be wiped out.

Simpang is about 100 miles below Pontianak and 425 airline miles northeast of Batavia.

Only in south Sumatra were the Japanese making rapid headway in pushing their advance bases closer to Java's western end. The fact that Dutch naval forces today were reported to have bombed enemy storage yards near Telokbetong, on Sumatra's southern tip, was the first official acknowledgment that in this area the enemy had reached the shore of Sunda strait, which separates Sumatra from Java by only 15 miles at its narrowest point.

The communique also admitted enemy occupation of part of Bengoelen, the residency on Sumatra's southeast coast, and of the tin-producing island of Bangka, off southeast Sumatra, 200 miles from Batavia.

George was returning to Canada on the H. M. C. S. Spikeland after conveying a ship on which another brother, Geoffrey, 23, landed in England with other RCAF fliers.

A third brother, John, 21, is also in the Canadian service, attached to a medical unit. He lived with his sister in Boston for five years before the war.

Eva is recuperating at her home in Queensberry st., Back Bay, from a broken neck suffered last October when she was driving to her mother's home in Picot, Nova Scotia.

Today she received a letter from her mother announcing that George was in a hospital in Seaford, England. He also was struck by shrapnel in a sea battle off England last summer.

Parkman to Buy Bike

Assuming his duties as state rationing administrator today, former State Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., told newspapermen he is planning to buy a bicycle to conserve his auto tires.

He said his automobile is on blocks and will remain there for some time to come.

"I'm planning to live in the country this summer and will ride the bicycle to and from the railroad station," Parkman said. In speaking of his new job he said:

"The rationing program can't succeed unless it is administered without fear or favor or discrimination."

communities today as yesterday's spectacular anti-aircraft barrage gave way to a barrage of words.

The event itself, the barrage and all that went with it, slipped into the background as the populace engaged in a prolonged debate as to who was right—Navy Secretary Knox or War Secretary Stimson. Many thoroughly agreed with Knox and insisted they had seen no planes. They cited the Western defense command's statement the planes were not identified and none was shot down.

Others lined up firmly behind Stimson. There were planes over the city, they declared, for they saw them with their own eyes and heard the drone of the engines with their own ears.

Biggest Rush in History To File State Income Tax

Thousands of persons filed state income tax returns today at the Boston office, 40 Court st., in the biggest rush in the history of the Commonwealth.

Thirty-five counter clerks handled the public at the rate of 350 persons an hour. More than 100 were on hand when the doors opened at 9 a. m.

Elmer George, director of the income tax division of the State Department of Taxation, today estimated that 50,000 more persons will file returns this year than last when 500,000 taxpayers filed.

The Boston office will remain open until 5 p. m. next Monday for filing because March 1, the legal deadline, comes on Sunday.

Returns sent by mail will get under the wire if the postmark on the envelope is stamped before midnight Monday, according to Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long.

Can a Married Woman Ever Feel Certain?

Many married women take unnecessary risks with their nerves, health, happiness. Why? Generally because feminine hygiene is considered too personal to be discussed. And so, many women use over-strong solutions of acids for the douche which can actually burn, scar and even desensitize delicate tissue.

Today such risks are needless. Science has given womankind Zonite. So powerful, it kills instantly all germs and bacteria with which it comes in contact. Deodorizes—by actually destroying odors. Opera in English a Treat

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Wednesday—I had a busy day in New York city yesterday. First, I spent an hour with a friend who has not been very well and then I ordered some necessary spring clothes, though I must say the weather did not seem very spring-like. It was just about as cold and windy as it could possibly be, but I have to look ahead and be prepared for spring in Washington, which comes suddenly.

At 12:30, Mrs. Vanderbilt Webb and Mrs. Noyes came to see me and then I went to the Cosmopolitan Club to speak at the members' lunch. I was glad to have a chance to explain what my successors in the Office of Civilian Defense are doing.

An hour or so at home, and then I started for Philadelphia. It was pleasant to have a little time for uninterrupted reading on the train, and then to be greeted by Judge and Mrs. Curtis Bok.

They are the kindest hosts and took me at once to Judge Bok's mother's house, where I dressed for dinner. After this we all went to the performance given by the Philadelphia Opera Company at the Academy of Music. The building is one of the most delightful in which to hear music.

This is a young opera company and the orchestra and the singers are a most refreshing group. Their performance, given in English, was full of life. I discovered for the first time that Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutti" is really a comic opera, perhaps not quite Gilbert and Sullivan, but certainly full of amusing byplay.

The audience, as well as the actors, seemed to me remarkably young. Service men and students were all about us. Many of them, of course, probably grew to love music through the youth concerts which Dr. Stowkowski gave, and which were always popular.

THE YOUNG MANAGER of the opera company, Mr. David Hocker, and all the people who work on the mechanics of this performance, are so enthusiastic that I feel it must eventually be a real financial as well as an artistic success.

I caught an 11:42 train to Washington. It was an unbelievably long train and, being in the car at the end, we were almost in Washington before any heat reached my compartment.

In spite of a certain amount of delay, I liked the trip and finished a book which I have enjoyed more than I can say. The characters in Ellen Chase's "Windswept" accept life as it is, its sorrows and its joys, so completely, and live it without resentment. They make friends alike with joy and pain. This is a novel which I think will be a help to many of us at the present time.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

FOOD

By Martha Lee

NEVER MIND IF THERE isn't as much seafood to be had this year for Lenten dishes. Salads can show an indifference to that scarcity by getting themselves served in a nutritious manner.

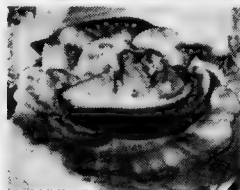

Salads served on a calavo half-shell, for example, help to make up for any nutritional loss in the lack of seafood itself. The fruit contains vitamins A, B-1, C, E and G, and unusual wealth of minerals including a high percentage of iron. There is also an exceptional proportion of protein for fruit, that compares favorably in quality with the casein of milk.

Calavo Whitefish Mixed Half-Shell is an example of how good Lenten salads may be made with only a small proportion of seafood.

CALAVO WHITEFISH MIXED HALF-SHELL

1 calavo
Lemon juice
Salt
2 cups shredded cabbage
1 cup prepared whitefish
¾ cups whole ripe olives
Mayonnaise
Lettuce for garnish
Cut calavo into halves lengthwise, remove seed, and pull skin from fruit; cut fruit lengthwise in quarters. Sprinkle with lemon juice and salt. Flake whitefish. Cut olives from pits in large slices. Combine whitefish, olives, cabbage, a sprinkling of salt and lemon juice, and sufficient mayonnaise to moisten, and mix lightly. Place in the center of a large salad plate garnished with lettuce. Arrange calavo quarters on plate around whitefish mixture. Top with mayonnaise. Makes 4 servings.

All appetites are on deck when salads made with canned shrimp arrive on the table. A shrimp salad roll with hard-cooked eggs; tomatoes stuffed with canned shrimp, and calavo and cucumbers with shrimp are all good combinations.

CALAVO LUNCHEON Half-Shell for Lenten Menus.

SHRIMP STUFFED CALAVO

Combine a No. 1 can shrimp with 1 cup grapefruit sections drained; marinate in ¼ cup French dressing. Cut avocados in half; remove seed, sprinkle cavity with lemon juice. Fill with shrimp grapefruit mixture. Serve with additional French dressing. Makes 4 servings.

Here's a luncheon half-shell which might well be the product of an experienced chef. It isn't a salad, it's true, but since it is designed to make fish "go further," it may well be considered here. The calavo isn't cooked—it's merely warmed. But the crab or other seafood has been creamed and thoroughly heated. Prepared half-shells are then placed, cut surface up, in a shallow baking pan, with warm water covering the bottom. The seed cavities are filled with hot seafood before popping into a 350 deg. F. oven for 4 or 5 minutes' sojourn—not a second longer. Then top with toasted bread crumbs and prove to six pleased guests your understanding of what constitutes good food.

LUNCHEON HALF-SHELLS

3 calavo pears
Salt
4 tbsp. butter
4 tbsp. flour
¼ tsp. salt
Pepper
1½ cups milk
1 egg
1 cup flaked cooked or canned seafood
¼ cup chopped uncooked celery
¼ cup cubed cooked carrot
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce (optional)

Toasted, buttered bread crumbs, or crumbled crackers

To prepare half-shells, cut each calavo into halves lengthwise and remove seed. Sprinkle cut portions with salt. Melt butter in a stew pan, add flour, salt, and pepper to taste, and cook and stir until well blended. Add milk and cook until thick and smooth. Remove from heat and stir in beaten egg. Add seafood, celery and carrots and heat to boiling; add Worcestershire sauce and stir to blend. Place calavo half-shells in a baking pan containing sufficient warm water to cover bottom. Fill seed cavities with seafood filling. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) not more than 5 minutes. Sprinkle tops with crumbs; serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Fashion

THIS IS the most talked-of silhouette of the spring season... and whatever anyone else may call any similar silhouette... for its interpretations will be varied... the designer, Charles Cooper, calls his the "arrowhead." The widened top, high inward curve and long, tapering point from hip to hem affix the silhouette in an arrow. That springtime adorable, sheer navy blue crepe, with white lingerie pompons, comes up new and fresh in this one... the kind of a dress every man you know, quite without exception, will love. Charles Cooper did the tiny, straw bonnet, edged with white ruching, too.—ANNICE BRINK.

DEFY CONVENTION, WEAR SOMETHING DIFFERENT

By BETTINA BEDWELL

WAR when it comes to clothes is very apt to mean regimentation, just as it does in other fields. With so many women wearing uniforms, the tendency is to pick your civilian clothes so they look pretty much of a piece with what everybody else is wearing.

Here in the U. S. A. we have been slowly developing a personal character in our dress, and this development got a big boost when we went on a 100 per cent American fashion program.

Our native designers had a new light in their eyes, and went to their dress creation with a new will to give us real character in our clothes. They have done handsomely, and judging by the Spring styles, I can report that in spite of the war they are still doing handsomely. There are plenty of "different" styles to be had.

However, there is a danger that you folks will not keep up your end. This is no time to let down and just pick out something like everyone you know is wearing.

Be yourself, and be yourself with all you have in wartime as in peace. You can be different without in any way interfering with the wartime effort. In fact, you'll help by keeping up your personal standard.

Smart Set Functions

RUBBER AND TIRES are disappearing, but the melody lingers on...

The Morning Musicales, which have become an important part of Boston's social and musical life, will go on as usual in spite of the war... Next winter will mark the 15th anniversary of this fashionable concert series...

Already feeling the pinch of the tire shortage, committee members are holding their meeting in town at places accessible to trains and buses... They have given up for the duration, their pleasant custom of driving out to each other's homes for committee meetings at luncheons and teas...

Yesterday they got together at the Hotel Vendome to discuss the business affairs of next season's concerts... and judging by the enthusiasm and interest, the series will be as popular as ever...

THE MUSICALES are run for the benefit of the Boston School of Occupational Therapy which trains women in the art of helping the physically handicapped... After graduating the girls work in hospitals where they teach arts and crafts and other useful occupations to convalescent patients... Naturally, during war-time there is more demand than ever for these trained young women, in Army hospitals, etc.—a fact which makes the Musicales committee more determined than ever to carry on their good work in supporting the school...

Mrs. H. Parker Whittington, co-chairman of the committee, presided at yesterday's coffee meeting in the absence of Mrs. John W. Myers, who is sojourning at Palm Beach... While various members made their reports, most of the others were busily clicking knitting needles to speed up the job of fashioning war relief garments... Mrs. Alexander Wheeler was among the knitters, as was Mrs. Harold B. Lamont of Lexington, who was modishly dressed in cocoa brown with brown squirrel trimming...

Looking like a spring fashion plate, Mrs. Robert C. Terry wore a navy pin striped suit with a white blouse, and a typical Easter bonnet fashioned of navy felt trimmed with white pique... Others attending were Mrs. Francis G. Barnum in teal blue with wine velvet accents, Mrs. Frank Stewart, Mrs. Carl Gilbert, Mrs. Frederick Mattheis, Mrs. Homer Albers and Mrs. Robert C. Daley...

NOTES FROM A SOCIETY EDITOR'S CUFF... Ensign Eliot W. Dalton of Milton is another scion of a prominent Boston socialite family who has packed his kit bag and entered the service... He's on active duty in the Navy, having recently earned his commission at the Midshipmen's Training School in Chicago... He was frequently seen dancing with Maria Louise Hurlburd.

The Masked Jury DRINKING IN-LAW

A HUSBAND'S PROBLEM

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: This is the first time I have ever written a letter of this kind, seeking advice. But I have a problem which I would like to see the Masked Jury vote upon.

Three years ago, after my wife's father died, my wife and I invited her mother to come live with us and ever since she has been in our home she has caused me a good deal of worry and embarrassment. She is a fine woman in every respect except one: She runs around with a crowd of women who spend most of their afternoons drinking cocktails.

She is devoted to her daughter, who is an only child, and I know she is very fond of our two children, but I certainly don't want my children seeing their grandmother in that condition, which they have on many occasions.

Do you believe I am justified in asking my mother-in-law to leave? —FATHER OF TWO.

HOW THE JURY VOTED

Women: Yes, four; No, two Men: Yes, five; No, one

FREIGHT OFFICE RATE CLERK: Yes, he is justified. Whether she has a place to go or not doesn't make any difference in this case.

DRAFTSMAN: Yes. A woman who is a grandmother ought to know better. I think his home and children come first.

HOUSEWIFE: No, he can't just put her out in the street. I believe it can be reasoned out in some way to make her stop.

HOUSEWIFE: Yes. And I think his own wife should be the one to ask her to leave for the sake of her children. They can rent her a room somewhere else.

BUILDING CUSTODIAN: Yes. It sounds hard-hearted but I don't see any other course inasmuch as he has warned her about it several times.

DRUG CLERK: Yes. That old lady will have them all crazy if they don't get rid of her. There's no fool like an old fool.

SALESGIRL: No. He indicates that his mother-in-law could be a comfort to his wife. That certainly indicates that she isn't hopeless.

FACTORY WORKER (woman): Yes. You can't bring children up that way and his wife should understand his reasons.

POLICEMAN: No. First of all, who gives the old lady the money to get drunk? And second, why don't they keep an eye on her?

HOUSE PAINTER: Yes.

FOOD DEMONSTRATOR (woman): Yes. A son-in-law's duty hardly includes tolerating a condition such as that.

CASHIER (woman): Yes. I don't see any other course left for him.

STONE MOUNTAINS!

BURRIS JENKINS' imaginative cartoon showing General Douglas MacArthur backed by the mighty sculptured images of Washington, Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt and Abraham Lincoln on South Dakota's Mount Rushmore will please the millions of Americans who already rank the heroic defender of the Philippines with the foremost men our country has produced.

Again, these millions will ask: "Why can't we save MacArthur? Why can't we send him the men and supplies he needs to continue his dauntless stand against the Japs?"

In his Monday evening radio address, President Roosevelt considered that question, apparently not too optimistically.

He said in part:

"We had no naval base there (in the Philippines), so we could not use the islands for extensive naval operations.

"Immediately after this war started, the Japanese forces moved down on either side of the Philippines to numerous points south of them—thereby completely encircling the islands from north, south, east and west.

"It is that complete encirclement, with control of the air by Japanese land-based aircraft, which has prevented us from sending substantial reinforcements of men and material to the gallant defenders of the Philippines . . ."

Next day, at his press conference, Mr. Roosevelt more strongly indicated that air support had not been sent to MacArthur and his men because there was no way of getting it to them or keeping it with them.

"How about flying in bombers?" asked one reporter.

And where, replied the President, would a bomber land in the rocky segment of land held by the defenders?

Another reporter asked whether some type of naval plane could not be sent. How long would it last after landing on the water, Mr. Roosevelt inquired.

Then, according to the New York Times, "when other questions mentioned the apparent disparity in views as to the possibility of sending in air reinforcements, the President deliberately replied that he would take a leaf from his own book and, not having enough information about the subject, decline to speculate on it."

Meanwhile, making practical use of the old proverb that the "gods help those who help themselves," MacArthur's men are reported to be using their own meager wages to buy aircraft for themselves under the slogan: "Better buy one bomber than be buried on Bataan."

But, perhaps, the situation is not so dark as it seems.

Possibly, the President has an ingenious plan for rushing reinforcements to the beleaguered Philippines.

It is reasonable and satisfying to assume that he may be concealing such a plan from the enemy.

We can only hope and pray that this is so, for we need General MacArthur and his heroic men to lead us to victory in this war and to end forever the menace of Japanese aggression and duplicity.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Bob Considine's beautifully written story of the life of General MacArthur, now appearing in the Boston Daily Record is a saga that every American school boy and girl should read and know.

On The Side

*Thou blind fool, love,
What dost thou to mine eyes
That they behold
And see not what they see?
—SHAKESPEARE.*

REASON those in love "see not what they see" as to the character of a loved one is because they don't want to. Most people in love are wishful thinkers . . . An oversized fellow never gets much sympathy. Say he slips and falls on the floor. Does anybody say the floor was slippery or that the rug should have had a rug-anchor? Never. They say the big guy fell because he was awkward. I speak from experience. In fact, it happened to me today. Another had break I had today was that I took the dog out for a walk in the rain and when I got home my girl friend said: "Why, you have your good hat on." And she was right. I put it on by mistake. Bought it only a couple of weeks ago. Cost me $9. And I walk around in the rain with it. Why don't they make all hats rainproof?

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Home managers everywhere report the cost of living insofar as price of food is concerned is going up rapidly. My girl friend says she is paying 25 cents a pound for things that a short time ago were selling for 15 cents a pound . . . A contented wife of Seattle says: "A man who is, or has been good to his mother will always be good to his wife. It never fails" . . . Californians have strongly suspected the Japanese intentions for many years. Following is an excerpt from a poem written by Helen Comber of California more than 20 years ago:
*The little brown man from the far off isle,
With his yellow skin and his wide-mouthed smile,
He plans and watches and well he knows
Our tolerant scorn for our lesser foes;
And his egoist soul just awaits the day
When he'll hand a jolt to the U. S. A.*

ASIDES: "So the San Francisco divorcees do not know how to get husbands," writes a Chicagoan. "How stupid of them. I thought those San Francisco girls were smart. The way for a divorcee to get a man is to keep telling him she will never marry again. Then he will try to make her change her mind. This technique never fails" . . . Some people claim neither J. M. Barrie nor Elinor Glyn originated the term "It." They say it was Kipling. Following is from Kipling's story, "Mrs. Bathurst," published in 1904: "Tisn't beauty, so to speak, nor good talk necessarily. It's just it. Some women will stay in a man's memory if they once walked down a street."

SIDELIGHTS: "As to whether or not absence makes the heart grow fonder," writes a soldier, "I'll say it does. I am in the cavalry about 2500 miles from home. This is the 340th day I have been away from my sweetheart and I love her more than ever. She's a Chicago girl" . . . All fat citizens should be taxed $20 per pound for each pound of excess weight as a means of raising more funds for defense. So says Dr. Anton J. Carlson, a thin man of Chicago. Such taxation wouldn't worry me. When I weighed in this morning I tipped the beam exactly at the weight the table says one of my age and height should weigh.

ADDED DETAILS: Most women admire the kind of "chic" personified by Claudette Colbert . . . Many builders of houses don't give enough attention to the kitchen. This should be as large as any room in the house, have large windows and be packed with gadgets for the convenience of the home manager and cook. If your house has an unusual kitchen you never have any trouble selling or renting it . . . So Renee Somer was chosen to be the most beautiful girl in New York University. Seems reasonable as Renee is a Brooklyn girl. I put this in just to show you that when I say America's most beautiful females are the Brooklyn girls I am stating something it is impossible successfully to contradict.

By E. V. DURLING

BEAUTIFUL CLAUDETTE COLBERT
Most Women Admire Her Brand of "Chic"

PLEASE NOTE: Popovers for Sunday breakfast are what I like. Knowing how to make popovers is sign of a good cook . . . Battleships for U. S. Navy cost about $27,000,000. To give you an idea of how much this is as a construction expenditure, the San Francisco Golden Gate Bridge cost $35,000,000. Manhattan's great Triborough Bridge cost $60,000,000 . . . An honorable discharge from the U. S. Army is on white paper, a discharge without honor is on blue paper, and a dishonorable discharge is on yellow paper . . . Considering the extent to which the machine gun figured in the Al Capone gangster era in Chicago, it is interesting to note the gun was invented in that city by Dr. Gatling in 1862.

BRIEFLY: Our Civil War is often referred to as the "Boy's War." Because it was fought mostly by young soldiers. This was especially true of the Union Army with a total of 2,778,304 men, of whom 2,159,789 were under 21 years of age. Also in the Union forces were 104,937 soldiers under 15 years of age . . . Ships from the United States are taking war materials to Russia via Vladivostok. But so far, though many opportunities have been offered, the Japs have not attacked any of these ships. Experts say this is because the Nipponese do not wish to offend Russia. Evidently the Japs don't care whether or not they offend Hitler.

"CHOP YOUR WOOD and it will warm you twice" is the motto Henry Ford has over his fireplace. I am a great fireplace fan but none of that wood-chopping stuff for me. I got my fill of wood-chopping when I worked on a farm. Certainly, I worked on a farm. It was in Andover. I had to work or not eat at that time and as there was no WPA I was compelled to take what work I could get. The farmer didn't like the way I milked a cow or ran a plow, so he put me to work chopping wood. Yes, sir I chopped wood for ten hours a day for three weeks. I haven't chopped any wood since.

Broadway's Voice NEW ROMANCE FOR LUPE VELEZ

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—Oren Root, Jr., and Whitney Bourne Griffiths are wondering if an aisle-waltz wouldn't be just their dish . . . Real reason for Debbie Hope Carroll's "mysterious" dash to Florida was Paul Livermore, her inspiration. Her mama, Mrs. Mullins, is unhappy over the lark.

Anthony ("Tony") Bliss, ex-husband of Marshall Field's daughter, is Jo Ann Sayers' most consistent stage-door Johnny . . . Bill Buckner will safari to Mexico—on business—when his parole is up. His new heart interest is Lillian Gars.

Laird Cregar, the 340-pound celluloid thespian, is laid up with a mild concussion. A horse bounced him . . . Danny Kaye and Vinton Freedley are 20 below zero over the producer's sale of "Let's Face It" as a vehicle for another comedian named Bob Hope.

LUPE Velez' new throb is Arthur Cordova, American star—which leaves Erich Maria Remarque all chilly on the Western front . . . Eddie Reek, a former ace cameraman, steps into the late Truman Talley's newsreel job.

Gene Tierney, as of Friday night in El Morocco, avers that the Count and Countess Cassini are not knitting tiny garments, as the bistro-chatterers have been whispering.

Model Cam Marshall, whose father owns the Washington Redskins, has George Price's scalp . . . Henry A. Alker, Jr., recently divorced blue-blood, will trek to the altar—according to his intimates—with Mrs. Alfred T. White, of the same set, when her divorce is final.

Washington know-alls claim that Laura Ingalls' downfall was paved by an unrequited love affair.

FRIENDS who've given up hope of Ann Shirley reconciling with John Payne predict that she'll try again with Roger Pryor . . . The touring "Panama Hattie" troupe is another "Clash by Night."

It is true that one of the Frenchmen in the U. S. to "assist" in the conversion of the Normandie is Admiral Darlan's closest friend? Fine scene in the Lambs Club the other evening when a well-known radio producer slapped an actor's face.

Stewart McDonald, of the Housing Commission, is cutting short his Florida jaunt to join actress Ona Munson in New York . . . Glenn Young is torching for Peggy Hopkins Joyce again.

MILTON BERLE'S MAMA, Sandra, isn't too well in Miami . . . Hee, haw: the rope in the Stork's Cub Room was put up in honor of a brunette who had had an extra cocktail and kept insisting she wanted to sit on Robert Benchley's lap!

Local smart set betting is that Martha Stephenson Kemp (Mrs. Victor) Mature will choose Spencer Martin—now with the air corps—as her next groom.

Gene Raymond will be in uniform shortly. So will Louis Hayward . . . The gas masks issued to children in Honolulu have the likeness of Mickey Mouse painted on them . . . If you think Maxie Baer bragged about his first baby, wait until No. 2 arrives!

CLUB WHITAKER closed Saturday night—and the folding of the famous LaHiff's Tavern was a sad thing for many Broadwayites. It was part of Main Stem history . . . Adele Jergens' new fur coat is a token from Horace Schmidsapp . . . Phyllis Perleman, George Abbott's p. a., is recuperating after a serious illness.

You'd be surprised at the identity of a temperamental male movie actor who badgered his supporting players on a recent radio program to the point where one became hysterical and two got sick while the show was on the air.

Burgess Meredith has discovered Paulette Goddard . . . Margaret Kim Loo, one-third of the Kim Loo Sisters, and Justin Gilbert, the columnist, will recite their "I do's" this week.

FRANCES GILMER, the model, is a Louisiana heiress—just working up here so she can get her picture on a magazine cover.

Reginald Gardiner is doing the night spots with Nadia Petrova.

Danny White, the Iceland comic, and Rosalie Wynne, the Boston songstress, are secretly Mr. and Mrs. . . . What were those alleged feuders, Mike Jacobs and Jimmy Johnston, cooking up in Lindy's the other morning—is Jimmy coming back to the Garden fold?

PEGGY JOYCE

BOSTON after DARK By GEORGE HOLLAND

DANIEL H. COAKLEY, JR., WILL RUN on a "vindication plank" in an attempt to win the seat in the Governor's Council which his father occupied for so many years until his ouster last Fall . . . Young Coakley's opponent will be Councilor Dan Cunningham, whom Governor Saltonstall appointed to succeed Coakley, Sr. . . . The surprise hit of the Democratic $25-a-plate Jackson dinner at the Statler was Minority Leader of the State Senate Chester A. Dolan . . . Dolan's impassioned oratory, without a scrap of note-paper to guide him, amazed oldtime Democrats and young alike . . . And to be done with political chatter: That debate between School Committeemen Joseph C. White and Clement A. Norton will take place—definitely . . . Nor will the boys be kidding when the exchange becomes acrimonious.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: The Boston police must remember Jane Anderson, whom Winchell calls "Lady Haw-Haw." . . . The Anderson gal has been in trouble for years . . . She married the Marquis de Cienfuegos, but her platter of grief was more political than marital . . . She was in Spain with the Marquis in 1936, after being accredited to Spain from Atlanta, Georgia, as a newspaperwoman representing "the radical press."

BUT THE SPANISH REDS jailed her, and a Boston newspaperwoman intervened when Miss Anderson was sentenced to death . . . (She was quite well known here as a result of having lectured frequently in Boston) . . . After being released with a full pardon after the American Embassy had worked effectively in her behalf, Jane, or the Marquise, came back to this country . . . She kept up her friendship with the Boston scribe, and before her last lecture in Boston, Miss Anderson telephoned from New York to ask the Boston writer to ask Police Commissioner Timilty to assign a bodyguard.

HERE IS THE PLEASANT AFTERMATH of a story which made the Boston front pages in 1938 . . . Brad Greene, a talented composer from Newtonville, had written the music for a show entitled "Right This Way" . . . It was produced by Alice Alexander, a pretty former actress who had interested a prominent shipping magnate as a backer . . . The show was a "near miss," and with a little more money and more preparation it might well have been made into a hit . . . As it was, the show wins some claim to a spot in history because it gave the comical Joe E. Lewis his first chance in a legitimate show . . . Also in the cast was a pretty and talented dancer named Grace McDonald.

WELL, BEFORE THE YOUNG Newtonville composer had placed his score for production, he enlisted in the Navy . . . When his music was received favorably by critics and public, Composer Greene and Miss McDonald, who were very friendly, decided that his future was ashore—ashore near the dry land known as Tin Pan Alley . . . So Miss McDonald wrote to Mrs. Roosevelt and begged her assistance in securing young Brad's release from the Navy . . . Mrs. Roosevelt went to bat immediately, and the young composer was mustered out. But Brad Greene, his friends learn, re-joined the Navy, where, apparently, his heart had been from the very start, at the first sign of trouble . . . Brad kept exercising his song-writing talent, however, and when The Officers' Club of Washington sponsored a competition to unearth a good martial tune, Brad Greene was one of the competitors.

THE NEWTONVILLE GOB is "somewhere at sea" at present, but we have just been informed that his song has won the Officers' Club prize . . . And here's something else . . . With the loyalty of the sea-going service to its own members, the Navy Band has adopted a Red Cross song written by the same Brad Greene to help the charity drive of that organization . . . So the Newtonville boy who was released from the Navy through Mrs. Roosevelt's good offices in peacetime, has a chance to become the wartime Band of the Seas, with his beloved Navy behind him to a man . . . It has considerable human interest.

Hollywood Today

WILL HELEN HAYES
ACCEPT ROLE?

By Louella O. Parsons

Helen Hayes

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26—Well, I always say there is no harm in trying. Buddy De Sylva believes that Helen Hayes will accept his offer to star in "Miss Appleby Gets Her Answer" when she reads the script. I can't be as optimistic, for I talked with Helen when I was in New York and she said:

"The little note I wrote you some years ago still stands. There are other girls more glamorous, and the screen is not for me."

Yet I must say "Miss Appleby Gets Her Answer," an original by Val Burton, would be a wonderful story for Helen or any actress of her calibre.

JUDY GARLAND

The "Appleby" story deals with the Red Cross during the last war. Miss Appleby puts her name in a Red Cross kit with a note. A young soldier gets it in the present war and, believing the sender is young, answers the note. She promotes a romance with him and her niece.

WHEN JUDY GARLAND was in New York she saw "Pal Joey" and then went around sounding like a press agent about young Gene Kelly. When she came back home she kept on raving about how wonderful he would be for pictures.

Apparently her M-G-M bosses have decided that Judy is an A-1 talent scout—for not only have they signed him on a term contract but Gene is handed to Judy for the male lead opposite her in "Big Time." This song and dance story about the good old days of vaudeville gets going right away at Culver City with Arthur Freed at the helm.

BINNIE BARNES loves to tell about the days when she (an English gal) passed herself off as "Texas Binnie" and did a rope twirling act in a big saloon in the London music halls.

In spite of her two-gun talents, Binnie has never appeared in a Western picture; that is, she hadn't until boss Herbert Yates decided to team her with John Wayne in "In Old California."

This is a yarn of the days before and during the Gold Rush, and, for the first time on the screen, Binnie will play a shoot-'em-up-gal and do all her rope tricks as well. J. Robert Bren and Gladys Atwater wrote the story and William McGann will produce.

JOAN LESLIE is apparently Bette Davis' closest rival for good roles on the Warner lot. Although only 17, Joan has already been in "Sergeant York," "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and other of Warners' top productions, so I wasn't surprised today when I was told that she will be co-starred with Ida Lupino in "The Hard Way."

She will have the Olivia De Havilland role, since Olivia has asked to be taken out of the cast so she can rest. John Garfield is also out of the cast, and as it stands now it's Ida, Joan and Jack Carson.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Ruth Hussey has just received her engagement ring—a four carat diamond. Her marriage to Lincoln Fogarty is set for early Summer; the Chill Wills (he is the Western comedian) expect their baby in April. They have been married 13 years; Alfred Vanderbilt's gift to K. T. Stevens is a diamond charm bracelet telling the story of their romance. They will be married sooner than anyone expects.

Keith Hit Held For Third Week

Proving they will flock to a good picture if you'll give it to them,

MAUREEN O'HARA AND WALTER PIDGEON
'How Green Was My Valley'

local filmgoers, by their record-breaking attendance, are responsible for the third-week holdover of "How Green Was My Valley" at Keith Memorial.

As you doubtless recall, "How Green Was My Valley" was recently voted "one of the 10 best pictures of the year." It is a great picture, told with simplicity that makes it universal in its appeal.

The picture is John Ford's valdictory to the screen, for the distinguished director, three-times Academy winner in the past five years and maker of such outstanding films as "The Informer," "Grapes of Wrath" and "Stagecoach" has retired to serve as lieutenant-commander in the Navy.

"How Green Was My Valley" was made by Darryl F. Zanuck for 20th Century-Fox at an approximate cost of $2,000,000.

The holdover co-feature, "Niagara Falls," features Marjorie Woodworth, Tom Brown, Zazu Pitts and Slim Summerville.

Scollay, Modern Get Musical Hit

Buddy De Sylva's personally supervised film adaptation of "Louisiana Purchase," his two-year Broadway musical hit, is to be seen on the Scollay and Modern screens for the week beginning tomorrow.

For the celluloid version, the screen's enormously popular Bob Hope joined forces with the original production's starring Vera Zorina, Victor Moore and Irene Bordoin to make it one of the screen's most successful musicals.

—FOR VICTORY: BUY BONDS—

"Broadway's Voice," by Dorothy Kilgallen, is a regular feature in the Boston American.

'Rivals' Coming To Opera House

The Theater Guild, following its policy of presenting great stars in great plays, brings Mary Boland, Bobby Clark and Walter Hampden in "The Rivals" to the Boston Opera House for one week only, starting Monday, March 16, direct from a Broadway run.

Eva LeGallienne staged the production and Lawrence Langner and Theresa Helburn did the supervising. The featured players include Helen Ford, Donald Burr, Halia Stoddard, Philip Bourneuf and Robert Wallsten. Others in the madcap lineup are Frances Reid, Raymond Johnson, Roland Hogue and Walt Draper.

"The Rivals" will likely go down in the 1942 season as the most hilarious of the modern classics to be presented by The Guild. Richard Brinsley Sheridan wrote the comedy in 1775. His characters were drawn from real life, and the high glee he had in compounding his moral is best expressed by the fact that he was afraid to have his name on the program as the author.

The story concerns the upper set at a resort — "to take the waters," says the script. Probably as a chaser. However, this is the play that brought forth Mrs. Malaprop (now Mary Boland) who is standard for murdered English. The intrigues, the romances of the "nice people" and the glamour-girl-heiress out for no good are all there in "The Rivals."

There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

"Cowboy" Lou Costello is taking no chances in the wild and woolly West in this shot of him in "Ride 'Em, Cowboy," his latest co-starring comedy with Bud Abbott for Universal. It is due on the RKO-Boston screen tomorrow when Hollywood's Dick Powell will be the dazzling star of the stage half of the sockeroo bill.

Kilties Invade N. Y.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—At the dark hour of 5:45 a. m., today, a group of soldiers at a U. S. Army post in the Metropolitan area rolled out of their bunks, donned kilts and tam-o'-shanters, and stuck dirks in their knee-length socks. They were British and Scottish fighting men, first combat force of the British Empire to set foot in the U. S. A. since the first World War. They liked "most everything they saw, except the bloomin' mild American beer.

"We like it to bite like a serpent and sting like an adder," a kiltie explained.
 The identity of the fighters, their purpose here, and their ultimate destination are war-time secrets. But the Scots, in heavy kilts, and the English, in equally heavy accents, made no secret of these likes and dislikes:

The American girls are "wow." The price of two drinks of whiskey (that's what is sounded like) in a Manhattan night club would buy a bottle back in Glasgow. The food here is better than anything they've had in more than a year.

As for those dirks—they are skeindhus, originally used for skinning wild beasts, now carried only for show. And their tams are called balmorals; the knob on top is a toorie.

Greetings from the U. S. soldiers at the post have been on the warm side. Tea has been added to the daily mess. No one pokes fun at their shorts; the Scots explained they never get cold.

The American soldiers even went so far as to introduce the visitors to the old army game of blackjack. Up stepper, a Scotsman (never played the game in his life) and watched a game or two. Then he sat in on a few hands and 30 minutes later broke the game.

They like it very much here.

Cardinal Boggiani Dies in Rome

ROME (from Italian broadcasts) Feb. 25 (AP)—Tommaso Pio Cardinal, 63, who had one of the most turbulent careers of any member of the College of Cardinals, died today. He had been in poor health for several years.

Cardinal Boggiani was involved in several sharp theological debates and at one time was the center of a dispute concerning the administration of the Archdiocese of Genoa. The most violent chapter, however, was when the townfolk of Adria stoned him.

Whale of a Problem Has N. H. Farmer Hopeful—Stumped

LONDONDERRY, N. H., Feb. 25 (AP)—Farmer Charles Anderson had a whale of a problem on his hands today.

After sawing into chunks the carcass of a whale washed up on Hampton's North Beach, Anderson discovered that refineries to convert blubber, flesh meat, bones and spermaceti into something valuable were about as scarce as hen's teeth.

Anderson was hopeful, however, of finding a refinery before the carcass became a health problem, as he went to considerable trouble to cart the mammal's remains to this island community.

Nazis Execute 8 Men In Holland and Prague

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 25 (AP)—Four Dutchmen have been executed for encouraging resistance to the Nazis in their country, a dispatch from Berlin said today.

Four men also have been executed in Prague, capital of German-occupied Czechoslovakia, because of violating ration card schemes, it was said.

British Women Build Engines

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 25 (AP)—A Rolls-Royce plant, which is producing more airplane engines in a week than it did in any pre-war year, opened its doors today to show how women are taking part in the production speed-up.

A third of the works turning out 1260-horsepower Merlin engines for warplanes are women, and Rolls-Royce officials are hiring more every day. The company allows them to smoke on the job and gives them American swing music over loudspeakers.

"If it will help them turn out engines faster let 'em smoke and give 'em all the swing they want," said the motherly woman supervisor, expressing the company's attitude.

Officials are enthusiastic over new American machine tools.

GARY COOPER DUE FOR OSCAR FILM AWARD

By HUBBARD KEAYY

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26 (AP)—It doesn't require a crystal ball to see Gary Cooper the winner of the big Academy Award tonight, but anyone who'd try to guess the name of the best actress would be climbing 'way out on a limb.

Each year, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences gives awards—gold-plated statuettes dubbed Oscars—for outstanding work in all movie branches, from acting to cartooning.

It is the consensus that the lanky fellow's performance in "Sergeant York" will get a majority of his fellow workers' votes.

But as for the actress, you can have your pick of the five nominated. Bette Davis is in the running for "The Little Foxes," but many feel her two previous awards are a handicap.

Most frequently mentioned are Joan Fontaine, for "Suspicion," and Barbara Stanwyck, for "Ball of Fire." A strong contender, however, is Joan's sister, Olivia de Havilland, for "Hold Back the Dawn."

Other actors nominated are Cary Grant, Walter Huston and Robert Montgomery.

The best picture prize is a toss-up, too. There is the widest division of opinion over "How Green Was My Valley," and "Sergeant York" lead the field, with "Jordan," and "Foxes" right behind.

Honolulu Drunks Get Jailed, Stiff Fines

HONOLULU, Feb. 26 (AP)—A military court imposed stiff sentences on the first persons convicted of drunkenness since restrictions against the sale of liquor in the Hawaiian Islands were lifted.

Five women and 17 men were fined from $100 to $500 each and sentenced to jail terms ranging from one to six months.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess uric acid and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste ruster stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness around the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent uric acid or uric acid poisons with nagging and knee aching sometimes show there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Don's Film, uncut successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give heavy relief and will keep the 15 mi. lines of kidney tubes fresh and poisonous wastes from the blood. Get Don's Film.

26 British Tanker Sunk by U-Boat

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 26 (AP)—The 5685-ton British tanker La Carriere has been added to the roll of United Nations vessels sunk by Axis submarines in the Caribbean.

She went down four hours after being torpedoed late Tuesday night 75 miles south of Puerto Rico, surviving crewmen said.

Twenty-three survivors and the bodies of four, including the captain, who were killed in the attack, reached the port of Guánica late yesterday. Two other boats were reported at that time to be still afloat.

Forty survivors of the Standard Oil Co.'s motor tanker Thalix, 8329-ton Panama flag vessel which was torpedoed and shelled to the bottom of the Caribbean sea, 50 miles off the Colombian coast Monday, were landed yesterday at Uribe, Colombia.

One man was killed. Eleven survivors, slightly wounded, were flown to Barranquilla.

Word to Sport: Keep Eye on Future

AS A TOPIC THIS ADMITTEDLY IS A microscopic matter when compared with the problem of what the future holds for humanity. But the subject of today's little opus is "What does the future hold for American sport?" Consider these items. Not tearfully of course, but as a matter of curiosity.

The government has sequestered all raw rubber. It has sharply reduced the pure wool content in all fabrications. High-test steel is not available. Horsehide is off the public market. Canvas duck is limited. Rayon is non-existent for private use.

Sports are not merely a matter of muscle, blood, bone and nervous reflex. Take the baseball for example! The content is a one-and-a-fractional ounce of pure parra rubber with a winding of 95 per cent high grade wool encased in a thin shell of horsehide. The bounce, or resiliency of the ball depends on the quality of the materials. An inferior grade of rubber center or yarn-winding will subtract many yards in the flight of the missile between the bat and the outfielder's glove or the fence.

Thus years ago when the baseball industry secretly needed the standard baseball and the home run, which had been almost as rare as the straight flush in poker, became common and Babe Ruth became first in the hearts of his countrymen, it was due to better quality of materials in the manufacture of the ball. The customers loved the illusion of the home run and refused to let themselves believe that the ball which Ruth, Ken Williams, Cy Williams, George Kelly and numerous others began to bunt over the outfield screens was any different from the pellet which had been used when a dozen home runs in a season made an individual record.

Baseball Goes Primitive Again

RUTH PRESENTLY HIT 59 in one year and finally sixty. But the customers refused to discount Babe's stupendousness even when the autopsical data was published comparing the homerun, or jack-rabbit ball, with the old fashioned hit-and-run, or "possum" ball. They enjoyed being deceived and the sport writers finally gave up trying to undeceive them and, after a while, just went along.

But the answer was "finer grade yarn, a lively duplex rubber core and a thin, selected grade of horsehide cover." Dye got what I mean? So what now? So now, pretty soon when the stock of dobbin-skin, fine sheep-wool and jungle-goo which is on hand in the ball factories is used up, we will be back where we started. The ball will be slower than ever.

Hits that infielders tipped their caps to as too hot to handle will plunk into their leather pancakes. Drives that arched over the outfield walls will fall for easy outs. Runners who scored easily from second base will be thrown out at the plate. The whole ratio between bat and field will be disrupted from its present delicate balance and we will be back again in the "pitcher's battle" era.

Not only that but the time is coming back when the cry of "lost ball" will pierce the air and players will hunt through the weeds of the Southern training camps to find the missing missile. The fan in the stands who has been accustomed to pocket foul flies will be asked to restore them to the field. The umpire will be less prone to throw out, lavishly, any ball that has a scuff or mar, and the pitchers, with that curious knack for making a pellet do weird antics, will be back where they were in the period of Three-Fingered Brown, Christy Mathewson, Ed Walsh and the great, immortal masters of the pastime.

So that's one effect of federal priority. And what about golf? It is a matter of laboratory record that the average numbers of golf balls lost, shanked, mutilated or snitched is between two and three for each round of 18 holes, whether the golfer be a duffer or expert. The average is that. In fact some 100,000,000 dozen golf balls per annum were used up, which means, multiplying that figure by 1.62 ounces of the purest rubber known to science; 162,000,000 ounces in all, or about 5000 tons, or about enough to make 100,000 tires.

"Hunt That Ball and Find It!"

THAT MEANS THAT GOLFERS OF 1942 will have to make one golf ball do what 6 or 8 did before. For the golf manufacturing companies are circularizing their clients to plead, please, to make one golf ball serve for three or more rounds. If you lose a ball, hunt 'til you find it. If you scar a ball don't discard it; send it back for recovering. Don't despise "repaints."

The morbid fact is, where reclaimed rubber can be used for football, basketball, volleyball and all other inflated ball bladders, the same rubber is useless in a golf ball, because intense heat is needed to cover that delicate commodity, and heat kills reclaimed rubber deadlier than a hunk of punk. There won't be any more golf balls after the manufacturers use their present "live" rubber stocks.

Tennie is more fortunate! Today the makers are fabricating a ball from old rubber and old flannel which bounces about four inches less from a 12-foot drop. It will be serviceable. There will be plenty of rackets, golf clubs, ball bats and that sort of thing. But there aren't any squash balls or handballs available on the market today, unless you know a bootlegger.

The price of old wool is as high as the price of new wool was this time last year. That means shoddier football jerseys and, after a bit, sleazier baseball uniforms. For the time being the Dodge-Davis Co., which manufactured most of the major league uniform cloth, has sufficient stocks to take care of the demand. But—and here's the catch. The Dodge-Davis Co., like many another sport factory, has been converted 100 per cent to defense work and is making soldier material.

There's a lot more to the outlook than that. For example, when the waterproof coverings which colleges and ball parks use to keep their playing surfaces dry are cracked and gone there won't be any more Race horses.

So that gives you an idea of the trend of future sport. Still, don't feel horrified. Think about MacArthur's men and the sharp things which swoosh past their heads like the sound of swishing scythes. Think about the fighter and bomber pilots of the USAFFE who are playing for the heaviest stakes known to man. Then, if you play a game, decide to conserve your game materials. It's only a random thought. Maybe it isn't worth mentioning in the light of more V-for-vital matters.

HOLYOKE FIGHT BLASTED, STATE MAY GET PURSES

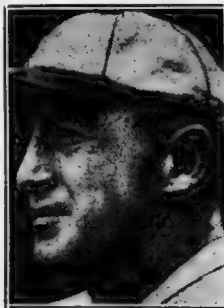

A threat to force a Holyoke ring promoter to pay the state treasurer the purses of two main bout fighters was made today by Sam Smith of Roxbury, State Boxing commissioner. In a sharply-worded official statement on the fight in question Smith said, at the State House:

"While no official report has yet been made to the boxing commission, early reports indicate that the boxers were not well matched.

"If this is proved to be the case the two boxers' purse money must be paid the state treasurer. Reports are that the promoter did pay the boxers, and if this is the case he may be forced again to pay the money to the state.

The fight in question was staged Monday night in the Holyoke Valley Arena, between Mike Peskin of Freehold, N. J., and Francesco Montanari of New York.

Referee Billy Lieberman ordered the two welterweights from the ring in the ninth round, charging that they had failed to show much fighting after frequent warnings. Lieberman, reports said, ordered the promoter to hold up the purses of the pair, but this was not done.

FRANKIE FRISCH
Serves Notice

Frisch Reads Riot Act To Pirates

EL CENTRO, Cal., Feb. 26 (AP)—A new midnight curfew, imposed by Manager Frankie Frisch, put a damper today on any surviving tendencies among the Pittsburgh Pirates to cut capers into the wee hours of the morning. Recalling that two unidentified baseball players broke training rules last year and were fined, Frisch, a strict disciplinarian, served notice that nothing of that sort will be tolerated in 1942.

"Last year I tried to protect the offenders and their families by not giving out their names to the newspapers," the old flash told the Bucs, who started training here this week.

"This year things will be different. Any player breaking rules will be fined and the newspapers will have the names right away.

"Henceforth every player must be in his room by midnight. If you want to stay out later, ask me for permission. I want to know where you are, that's all."

Frisch couldn't help injecting a little humor into his sermon. He said:

"It's a nice place, I may join you there. I like a little fun myself."

STOMACH AILMENT FORCES HOGAN OUT OF GOLF GRIND

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—Ben Hogan, leading golf money winner, feeling "pretty punk," is in town for a vacation from the golfing wars and probably won't start in tournament play before the Miami-Biltmore four-ball March 8.

With Mrs. Hogan, he checked in for a rest. Hogan said his stomach had been giving him trouble and his diet was restricted largely to soups and buttermilk.

No man under 40 has ever tasted such whiskey as this

IN every bar and liquor store in New York where Old Overholt is sold today, you will find a whiskey which takes you back in memory more than 20 years.

For America's favorite bottled in bond rye is now bottled at a full, ripe six years old for the first time since prohibition started.

But extra aging has wrought a change in this magnificent whiskey that's almost a magiclike plus.

Its rich, grainy taste has become vastly smoother, mellow.

Once you try it we know you'll say, "This is the whiskey I've always hoped to find!"

28 Stainback Welcomes Chance With Yanks

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—Jake Early, the muscular Washington catcher, has his eye on the cleanup spot in the Senators' batting order. As a result, he has come up with a new batting stance which he figures will give him the swing more power. Early batted .287 last season and led the club with 11 homers.

EL CENTRO, Cal.—The Pittsburgh Pirates who play golf in their leisure hours are becoming the fact they left their clubs at home.

Manager Frankie Frisch, who for two years has opposed golfing by his players except on open dates, made the surprise announcement that his pitchers and catchers may shoot a few holes either before or after baseball practice.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Outfielder Tuck Stainback, who was traded to Kansas City by Detroit during the winter and was signed yesterday by the Yankees, lost no time getting into a New York uniform.

"This is the break I've been looking for," Stainback said as he prepared for his 100th season in organized baseball. "I'll make $1,000. McCarthy glad he took me on."

TAMPA, Fla.—Ival Goodman, who spent much of last season on the bench because of injuries and illness, is getting around like a hot iron. He is confident he can hit homers like he did in 1939, one-third of Cincinnati's search for a blugging outfielder may be over. Ten pounds heavier than in 1941, Goody says he is confident of holding down right field this year.

MIAMI, Fla.—The New York Giants will not use their pitching veterans when they go to Havana this week-end to open the exhibition season against the Dodgers. Manager Mel Ott has named Joe Adams, Johnny Wittig, Hugh East, Tom Sunkel, Dave Koso, Salvatore Maglie, John Hubbell and Jess Danna for the two-game series. Veterans Carl Hubbell, Hal Schumacher, Cliff Minton and Bill McGee won't even make the trip.

ANAHEIM, Cal.—"I should climb up around 300 again," said Mike Kreevich shortly after he signed his contract with the Philadelphia Athletics. The former Chicago White Sox outfielder said the Athletics' park was a "great place to hit," while the White Sox park was a "tough spot."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Veteran Lon Warneke, reporting for his first workout at the St. Louis Cardinal training camp, cheated a thrilling win and worked up a good sweat. Pitcher Harry Gumbert and Catcher Ken O'Dea are the only Card battermen not yet in work.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Billy Hitchcock, purchased from the New York Yankees' Kansas City farm, is supposed to be the 1942 Detroit Tiger shotout, but Murray Franklin declares he will have something to say about that position. Franklin, up from Little Rock, hit two home runs yesterday in Detroit's first batting drill.

PHILADELPHIA — Shortstop Bobby Bragan signed his 1942 contract with the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday shortly before the club was to leave for spring training camp at Miami Beach.

AVALON, Cal.—Pitcher Bill Lee, probably the best conditioned and most determined athlete in the camp of the Chicago Cubs, also will be the No. 1 hurler today for the Bruins' first batting practice.

Harvard Rates Edge On Yale Six

Based on the record of each team, the Yale hockey sextet should whip Harvard Saturday night at the Arena but, just as in football, records don't count when these old rivals get together. Yale has won 12 and lost 4, while Harvard has won 9 and dropped 7 contests. With a 3-2 record in Pentagonal League clashes, Yale is second, while the Johnnies are fourth with a 1-3 record. Because Princeton has to face the league-leading Dartmouth team a week from Saturday, Harvard is in a good position to make a successful bid for runner-up honors.

Should, as expected, the Indians scalp the Tigers, then the Harvards, by winning both ends of the Yale series, and defeating Princeton next Wednesday, can finish second. Close followers of the Crimson are confident it can be done, pointing out that Harvard played its best hockey of the year last Saturday against Dartmouth, and also that the shift of Johnny Paine to a defense slot has strengthened the squad immeasurably.

Last night at the Boston Skating Club, patrons who stayed on after the undefeated Crimson freshmen walloped the B. U. yearlings, 9-2, saw the Harvard varsity sharpen up their shooting irons with better than a dozen goals against the strong Hood Rubber sextet, known as the Newton Blackhawks. While the actual score was not released, the Crimson posted in six goals in the first period, and the almost equal number in the second and third cantos.

Dick Mechem, the blond terror who is making alumni forget all about George Owen and Austie Harding, was at his best against the Terrier pups, solving twice for scores, and blasting a third goal by Bill Stalker as the result of a penalty called on the B. U. goalie. Mechem rubbed it in unintentionally a few minutes later, when his hard shot knocked out three of Stalker's front teeth, necessitating surgical treatment.

Determined to avenge the luckless final-second loss to the Tigers two weeks ago, the Harvard hoop team entrains tomorrow morning for the league Tigertown clash with Princeton in the evening. Mentor Earl Brown has mapped out a plan to stop the sensational George Lawry, the blond sophomore set-shot ace who wrecked the Crimson Feb. 14 with 24 points, single handedly bringing the Tigers from behind to triumph, 54-52.

ALSAB GETS THIRD CHANCE TO PROVE HE'S 1942 THREAT

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—Albert Sabath, Chicago attorney, announced today that his Alsab, 1941 two-year-old champion, would go to the post Saturday in the $25,000 Flamingo Stake. For several days he had been considered a doubtful starter, after two disappointing starts here. Alsab worked out today and both owner Sabath and trainer August Swenke said they were well satisfied.

Browns Buy Toledo Club

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26 (AP)—Toledo of the American A's became a wholly-owned farm club of the St. Louis Browns today. The Browns acquired the stock of President Waldo Shanks of Toledo and his associates to give them 100 per cent control. The price was not disclosed.

The Browns entered into a working agreement with Toledo in 1940 and last year acquired a majority interest of the club's stock.

C. E. Gilliland, who has been in charge of the Browns' minor league farm operations, will go to Toledo as president. Shanks will remain as director of the team. Toledo becomes the fourth Browns-owned farm club. The others are San Antonio, Tex., Springfield, Ill., and Youngstown, O.

Sox Seek to Change Hill Luck With Vets

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 26—When Tom Yawkey took over the Red Sox nine years ago he dipped into the rear pocket of his billfold and tried to purchase a pennant. In addition to the all-star infield and outfield casts he brought to Fenway, he bought such established pitchers as Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg, Wesley Ferrell, Johnny Marcum, George Pipgras.

But no pennant was forthcoming, not in '33 under Marty McManus, not in '34 under Bucky Harris, not in '35 under Joe Cronin.

In 1936, after it was discovered that all-stars did not a pennant make, the Sox shifted on a new tack.

"We'll start a farm system," they decided. "We'll develop our own players, particularly pitchers."

FARMS HAVE PRODUCED

So Billy Evans was put in charge of the farm system, and the kids started to sprout.

"We'll beat the Yankees," vowed Joe Cronin in a national magazine. "Give our farm kids another year or two, and then watch our dust."

They've had their year or two, but we haven't seen any pennant. It isn't, we believe, because no pitchers were developed on the Sox farms. During the past three years we've seen some handsome young animals at Sarasota.

Woody Rich, for example, and Frank Dasso. Herb Hash, Bill Butland, Charlie Wagner, Norman Brown, Bill Sayles, Emerson Dickman, Mickey Harris, Earl Johnson, Tex Hughson, Larry Powell. Dozens of them.

Rich had reported in '39 after winning 19 games under Doc Frothing at Little Rock. "A second Grover Cleveland Alexander" he was tagged, and he looked it and acted it until a sore arm shelved him late in May.

WAGNER UP AND DOWN

Hash had reported in '40 after winning 22 games at Minneapolis. He flashed for a while, winning seven games until June 27 of that year, then fell apart.

Butland had reported in '40 after winning 19 games at Minneapolis. Standing 6-5 and with a deceptive cross-fire, he seemed an unusually good prospect. But he wound up in Scranton, then Louisville.

Wagner had reported in '38 after winning 20 games at Rocky Mount and 20 more at Minneapolis. But the Sox kept sending him back, and it wasn't until last year that he got a chance. He made the most of it as his 12-3 record attests.

Harris had reported in '40 after winning 19 games at Scranton. After being hailed by one and sundry as another Grove in the bud, he was shipped back to Scranton. Yet Del Baker picked him for the A. L. all-stars last year.

Dickman had been a sensation at Little Rock before Rich. After burning up the league as a relief pitcher in '40 he wound up at Louisville in '41.

Hughson had been a whizz at Louisville in '40, beating the Rizzuto-Priddy Kansas City gang three times in the A. A. playoffs. Powell had been a talented left-hander with Dom DiMaggio on the Frisco club in '39. Dasso was a schoolboy sensation at Chicago who seemed to have everything.

In addition there were 23-game winner Dick Newsome from San Diego, 22-game winner Oscar Judd from Sacramento, and Bill Fleming, who had won 17 games for Hollywood when the Sox brought him east in August.

PLAGUED BY SORE ARMS

Where, one kept wondering, could a ball club find more promising pitching talent?

Nevertheless none of the kids clicked with the Sox. They all proved they could pitch on occasion, but there never was the steady progress one could reasonably expect. Most of them wound up with sore arms and eventually were returned to the minors.

Now the pendulum swings back again. Instead of a crack rookie crop of yesterday we find a bunch of 30 and 32-year-olds getting the call down here. Not because it is a war year, but because the Sox seem to have no confidence in youngsters, can't seem to get anything out of them like San Diego did with Yank Terry.

There's a case. The Sox chased Terry out of the park in 1940 after bringing him up from Louisville, yet Herman Pillette, San Diego pitching coach, turned him into a 26-game winner overnight.

Does that prove anything?

IT DOESN'T FOLLOW

Well, it's all past now. Kids like Woody Rich, Frank Dasso, Bill Sayles and others are out of the Sox clutches, and we'll be anxious to see how they graze in other pastures.

In their places we find fellows like Mace Brown, born May 21, 1910; Ken Chase, born March 22, 1918; Nelson Potter, born Aug. 23, 1912; Mike Ryba, born June 9, 1905, etc.

The only real kids on the roster are Norman Brown, born Feb. 1, 1919, and Bill Butland, born March 22, 1918.

If your club kept finishing 16½ and 20 games behind the Yankees year in and year out, whether it finishes second or fourth, would you be replacing promising youth with hoary veterans?

Will the scrapping of the Youth Movement bring us the pennant which used to be an annual promise?

Mebbe, mebbe. But don't bet any defense bonds on it.

PAUL WANER

PAUL WANER BIG TRIBE AID

Paul "Big Poison" Waner's signed contract has been deposited in the safe at Braves Field. From a news viewpoint that announcement may not call for a "replate," but it's very important to President Bob Quinn and Manager Casey Stengel.

Since he broke into baseball, Waner has been a great hitter. At this stage of Paul's career, it is far more important that he has the faculty to teach rookies how to hit. Although I appreciate that Quinn and Stengel have always recognized Waner as one of the game's best hitters, I doubt if either of them realized that the former Pirate had teaching qualifications.

Get out to Braves Field early some afternoon this season and see Paul instructing the kids (and, yes, the veterans) how to chop high pitched balls into the ground in front of the plate... It will be a revelation.

Two more Braves contracts arrived from the Pacific Coast yesterday. Long Manny Salvo mailed his from Sacramento, and Al Montgomery's came from Los Angeles... John J. Quinn, president of the Braves' farm clubs, is in Buffalo today attending the annual meeting of the Pony League. He'll be in a huddle with Chet Ross.

Sibby Sisti and Warren Spahn before he climbs back into a sleeper for home tonight... There'll be 32 major and minor league teams training in Florida this spring.

With the exception of Toronto, which will be at Camden, S. C., all of the International League will be in the Sunshine State... Sam Wakeman, who played a very good tackle for Cornell under Gil Doble, is the "Big Boss" at the new Bethlehem Steel Corp. at Hingham.

Willie Duffy, pro at Trappelo Golf Club, has returned from Florida. The weather and the airplanes drove him back to the cold climates.

Art Ross Makes Hit²⁹ With Ice Series Idea

By BILL GRIMES

Art Ross, Bruins' manager, has been flooded with congratulatory letters since he made the suggestion that the RCAF sextet challenge the winners of the Stanley Cup, if they (the RCAF) win the Allan Cup.

During the many years he has been in hockey Ross has come up with innumerable suggestions which have been of great benefit to the "fastest game on earth." But he reached an all-time high when he conceived the idea of a best two out of three-game series between the RCAF and the 1942 world champions... Due to the loss of "Dit" Clapper, Bill Cowley, Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart, the great Bruin machine, one of the best in the annals of the N. H. L., suffered what the skeptics believe to be a deadly blow. But, right now, it's about a month too early to count out the Rossman.

BROWN WON'T BE OUTDONE

Over the years, the Bruins' greatest asset has been "guts." True, the Krauts are gone, Clapper is through for at least this season, and it is questionable if Cowley will be able to round into condition. But, despite their casualties, the Bruins are still the most two-fisted aggregation in the N. H. L. They proved that against Rangers even in defeat.

Between now and the play-offs, Ross and Clapper, barring any injuries to keymen, will round out a club, which will be tough for any N. H. L. team to relieve of the Stanley Cup. But, regardless of whether the Bruins successfully defend their world's championship title, if the Krauts spark the RCAF to the Allan Cup, the 1942 Stanley Cup winners must accept the challenge.

STUFFED SHIRTS BEWARE!

In the event that Bruins, Rangers, Chicago, Detroit or Americans win the Stanley Cup and the RCAF survive the Allan Cup play downs (there's a real Canadian term) the proceeds of the best two out of three challenge series will be divided between the U. S. Army and Navy societies and the RCAF fund. But, if the Toronto Maple Leafs replace the Bruins as the world's champions, you can lay it out on the line that Connie Smythe will donate the entire gross receipts to the RCAF. However, under no circumstances, would Walter A. Brown, president of the Garden Arena, allow even Smythe to beat him to the draw. Just let the Bruins defend their title and Brown will toss the Garden in the laps of the Rossman and the RCAF and he'd receive the 100 per cent backing of his directors.

Now, let's suppose that Chicago or Detroit survives the Stanley Cup play downs. Do you believe for one moment that James Norris, who owns the Chicago Stadium, and the Detroit Olympia, would accept any rental? Not by a long shot. And, it would be just too bad for any of those stiff shirt directors of New York's Madison Sq. Garden if they tried to come up with a rental contract, such as they handed Bill Dwyer.

Unless they co-operated to the limit, Madison Sq. Garden would be converted into a mid-town garage within a year. Right now, it is fatal to be mercenary, especially when dealing with such worthy charities as the U. S. Army, the U. S. Navy societies and the RCAF Fund.

Gullane Favored For Bantam Title

Thirty-two strong, clever and hard-hitting youngsters will march into Boston Arena next Monday night for the grand finals of the Diamond Ring Tournament, sponsored by the Irish-American A. A.

Chelsea's own Eddie Gullane, a high school student, and the Golden Gloves and Diamond Belt bantamweight titleholder, will be a favorite to win his class. The Chelsea "redhead" has been boxing only five months, yet has reached the top in true championship fashion. His opponents in the Diamond Ring grand finals will be Joe Noguero, 19-year-old Bostonian with a record of 15 wins; Leonard Delmonico, a newcomer from Fitchburg, who shaped up like a winner in his qualifying round and James Mylam, 18-year-old Lowell biffer with a record of 20 victories.

30 ARIANE TOPS 'ICE QUEEN' PROGRAM

Lovely Ariane, 18-year-old Swiss marvel who made her first American hit right here in Boston with the Silver Skates Derby recently, arrived back in town last night to be on hand at the early date for the gala show being planned by Paul Brown to surround the finals of the search for "Miss Boston" and "Miss Massachusetts" at the Arena Sunday night.

It seems that Ariane leaves nothing to chance. In her last visit here she skated at the Garden, and now that she is going to appear at the Arena she came on ahead to work on the new surface for a few days in order to duplicate her Silver Skates performances.

HEADLINES PROGRAM

This 18-year-old girl who won the last international championship held and also holder of the Swiss medal, will highlight the local Queen of the Ice finals. There will be many other figure skating and comedy standouts to help round out a brilliant card.

But the main purpose for the get-together must not be lost. Out of 16 charming young ladies who have survived four eliminations, a "Miss Boston" and a "Miss Massachusetts" will be picked to represent this section in a National Queen of the Ice contest in Hollywood. The winner there will appear in a motion picture and receive a one year contract with the Ice Capades.

The 16 finalists will be called upon to make three appearances. The first time they will be judged on beauty of face and figure; then of showmanship, charm, poise and personality; finally on skating ability.

EXPERT INSTRUCTORS

Skating ability has not been particularly stressed for Paul Brown, manager of the Arena, feels that the winners can be taken in tow by the competent skating instructors at the Arena so that between now and the end of April these girls can perform the 90-second routine needed for the finals.

This instruction will naturally be free for the winners as will their costumes and wardrobes in addition to the Arena paying all expenses.

So, this windup together with the many other features should add up to a great show at the Arena Sunday night.

DORIS TUFTS TO PERFORM AT SKATE SHOW

One of the most colorful of amateur ice carnivals will be held by The Commonwealth Figure Skating Club of Boston, March 6 at the Arena, with more than 100 young and older club members, all amateur figure skaters of varying degrees of ability and prominence, taking part.

It will be the first public ice carnival to be presented by this newest of figure skating clubs, which was formed in Boston four years ago.

SKATING THREE YEARS

Outstanding in the amateur cast is Miss Doris Tufts, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Perry Tufts of Wellesley Hills, who recently was runner-up for the Eastern States Junior singles championship and who made an excellent showing in the more recent national championships.

Miss Tufts has been skating three years and this was her first attempt at national honors. She has been making rapid strides as a figure skater and promises to reach the forefront of the nation's amateur blade artists in a very short time.

Miss Tufts, who will skate an exhibition singles number, has taken part in other ice carnivals, including that of the local Skidoo Club and also at Lake Placid, where she is a frequent visitor. She is a pupil of Howard Nicholson of New York and has been receiving "free style" instruction from Gustave Luss of Philadelphia, and is now a pupil of the Gamaliel Bradford School of Wellesley.

ICE QUEENS—Among the 16 survivors still in the running for the title of "Miss Boston" and "Miss Massachusetts" in the Queen of the Ice Carnival to be held at the Arena next Sunday are, left to right, Dorothea Dempsey, Phyllis Irwin and Mildred Cyr. Miss Dempsey has already won an elimination.

Olympics' Third Line In Doubt for Orioles

With two of his lines settled, Coach Hago Harrington is still undecided on his third trio when his Olympics meet the Baltimore Orioles Friday night at the Garden in the first of a two-game series.

Kaplan to Box Dean In Worcester Ring

WORCESTER, Feb. 26—Mike Kaplan, welterweight titleholder, will box Irish Johnny Dean of Queen City, N. Y., in the feature contest of ten rounds at Mechanic Hall Friday night.

When the Orioles and the Pica meet again on Saturday night it will be the Maryland team's last showing here at the Garden this year.

Olympics' fans will be treated to a double feature both nights. Friday evening, starting at 7:15 o'clock, the Bay State All-Stars and the Eastern Mass. All-Stars will clash to settle their recent 3-3 tie.

The following night the winner of this encounter meets Greater Boston Interscholastic League Stars, 3-2 losers to Catholic High of Montreal last Monday.

The first two periods of the schoolboy games will be played before the start of the Pica-Orioles game, which will get under way at the usual hour, 8:30, and they will resume play between the first two periods of the feature melee.

Paul Gubroad, Ray Chaisson and Al Dumond form Harrington's starting line, with Junie Allen pivoting the second wave, with Dannie Sullivan and Gerry Desrosiers on the wings.

The third wall has several youngsters battling for the two wing posts alongside the veteran Johnnie Fitzgerald, who will center. Not completely satisfied with the work of the new recruits, Harrington may shift Eddie Barry back to his wing post, leaving Cy Beigler, a converted defenseman, Bob Mee and Ty Anderson as his three defensemen. There is also a slight possibility that Al Baranowski, who broke his cheekbone in Washington Friday night, will be back.

Feller Banned From Furlough Hurling by AL

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26 (AP)—American League magnates recently refused to permit Bob Feller to pitch for Cleveland during any summer furloughs he might get from the Navy, the Indians' president, Alva Bradley, disclosed today.

Bradley said the Tribe, however, hasn't given up hope of getting permission for Feller to work in one of this year's two All-Star games, although league magnates frowned on that idea, too.

"All club owners were afraid that Bob, hearing down in an occasional game, might damage his arm permanently," said the Indians' proxy.

"But the big objections was on the score of precedent. If Feller can pitch on furlough, then why can't every other ballplayer in the service be used when he's available? There would be a lot of confusion and unfairness."

Bradley said he brought up the matter of furlough playing as a topic for discussion, and not as a proposal.

9 Coast Players Quit Shipyard To Rejoin Team

Learning that nine members of the Oakland Pacific Coast League Ball Club are planning to quit work in the shipyards to report for spring training next week, Art Cohn of the Oakland Tribune suggests the club should hire women players instead. That wouldn't take men away from vital defense projects, he maintains, and besides there has been a lot of talk about putting women in non-essential industries.

British Sport 'Ban' Denied

LONDON, Feb. 26 (INS)—The London Daily Express today denied erroneous reports that the British government plans complete wartime abolition of boxing, dog racing and similar sports.

The paper pointed out that Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal, in his address to the House of Commons yesterday said such activities would be prevented only "so far as they impede" Britain's intention to achieve victory.

The Express said it was understood the government intends to tighten up its control over activities which have no bearing on the war effort. Police are expected to make sure that persons attending such shows have a right to be there and are not neglecting their work in order to attend.

Although the co-medalist, Senna took a three and two beating from Sanford Rissman of Chicago in the first round of match play.

He also lost in a five-hole medal play-off to Skeel Reigel of Los Angeles.

In the other upset, Bob Servis, the former amateur champion of Dayton, O., was sent to the sidelines, 3 and 2, by William Y. Stomberg of Miami.
